Mr. Kahn Has a Plan. Coolidge Says No, No, No. Gandhi Brings Two Goats. Would You Live Forever?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OTTO H. KAHN, possessing more thinking power than the average man with $50,000,000 or so, has one of the many plans "to end the economic slump."

He would do something about the tariff.

Amend the Volstead act, while waiting to get rid of the Eighteenth Amendment. (That would be a long wait.)

He advises governmental economy.

He urges the government to be generous in its aid to the idle, but to watch the speeding of government funds closely.

He warns against reckless taxation that discourages enterprise. There we hear "the honest watchdog's bark, bay deep-mounted welcome, as we draw near home."

NOBODY HAS a real plan yet, and you cannot have a plan, when the industrial, financial and government forces of a nation work haphazard, with no co-ordination, no co-operation. You cannot have a plan, where there is no planning, and everyone rushes on faster and faster until the smash comes.

FOR ONE THING, you may write it down, that the AVERAGE man, not merely the union mechanic or Wall street broker, shall have decent pay for his work, and security in it.

In every direction our system of DISTRIBUTION is imperfect, and in nothing as imperfect as in distribution of the nation's wealth. Let the average worker earn more, spend more, buy more, use more, and keep out of the country, by tariff or otherwise, whatever competes unfairly or harmfully, with those that live here.

OUR BEST MINDS should pay attention to Deterding, Dutch-British oil man, who advocates bi-metallism, letting silver resume its place as money, instead of making gold the only standard, thus destroying the buying power of 800,000,000 human beings.

High finance cannot sneer at Deterding, for in finance, industry, business and the power to grab things, all over the world, Deterding has taught not one, but 100 lessons to our hardest boiled financial geniuses, the oil men. They shiver and show their upper canines when they hear the Dutchman's name.

CALVIN COOLIDGE is said to be much annoyed by numerous backers and organizations that talk about "drafting him as prosperity's choice for 1932."

Mr. Coolidge is sincere in his annoyance and his common sense tells him that if he did run, he would find himself more seriously annoyed than at present.

One who has hit the bull's eye repeatedly, never a miss, would be foolish to re-enter the contest now, with the target hidden behind a mountain of depression.

GANDHI LEAVES India for England, taking for wardrobe a loin cloth, for nourishment, two female goats that give milk, and for occupation, a contrivance for making cloth by hand.

And such is the power of sincerity, that this half-starved, penniless man will be received with honor and respect not accorded to any Rajah, glittering with jewels and enriched by millions that British rule helps him to extract from miserable natives, as his sword helped him to extract them before the British came.

PERHAPS YOU read here a suggestion that mysterious rays, Alpha, Beta, Gamma etc., able to penetrate our tissues, without destroying them, might prolong human life.

The learned Doctor Stoklasa, serious scientist and radium expert, tells the Congress of Radiologists in Paris that the rays may prolong human life indefinitely.

Old age means "simply a state in which the tissues of the body have become deoxidized, and the stop of complete deoxidization is death."

Alpha rays arrest this deoxidizing process. Beta and Gamma rays oxidize the tissues, giving them new life.

No calamity could be greater than making life last forever. Imagine a world peopled by 10,000,000,000 human beings, all too old to have children or accept a new idea.

WHILE WAITING for "youth from radium," the wise man will reoxidize himself with deep breathing, and exposure of his body to the sun's rays.

Rejuvenation by radium would be at least more welcome than the Voronoff method, via the glands of goats or monkeys. An old man, anxious to revive energy that will let him continue playing the fool, is a sad sight.

MacDONALD, HAVING put his country's interest ahead of his Labor Party's desire for a big dole "even if Britain has not the money," is asked to resign his seat in Parliament by his Labor constituency. He will probably obey the order, and since no man can be Prime Minister unless he sits in Parliament, MacDonald will doubtless be made a peer and take his seat in the House of Lords.

In that event, he will have run an interesting course, coal miner, Labor politician, Prime Minister and peer of the realm.

32,000 VOTE RECEIPTS GIVEN 850

Bar's Court Fight for View Of List Reveals Factions' Drive to Franchise Aides

Thirty-two thousand 50-cent poll tax receipts entitling the holders to register for the primary election were issued by the County Treasurer's office to 850 persons, testimony disclosed today in proceedings instituted by the Bar Association.

Arthur Drumm, chief clerk in the Treasurer's office, revealed that a number of receipts had been issued on orders presented by persons other than those to whom the receipts were made out, indicating the hand of political organizations in arming their followers for casting ballots.

DECISION AWAITED

Judge James H. Gray withheld until late today a ruling on mandamus proceedings brought by the fraud committee of the Bar Association to compel the County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes to certify additional assessment books to the County Treasurer.

The court ruled, however, that the board could continue to assess persons not previously enrolled by the district assessors. Within an hour afterward, hundreds swarmed the tax board offices seeking to have their named listed, preparatory to paying their poll taxe.

SCHAD TESTIFIES

The purpose of the fraud committee's action was to make available the additional tax books. George J. Schad, chairman of the tax board, had refused to permit the Bar Association representatives to examine the lists, with the result that the effort was begun to have them certified to the treasurer, where they could be examined.

Schad was asked how many names had been placed on the additional assessment books. He replied:

"We made an unofficial estimate two weeks ago of between 6,000 and 7,000."

Drumm testified that altoge-

Crain Probe Report Goes to Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Tammany Hall was buzzing with excitement today as Samuel Seabury's report on the investigation of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain's office was on its way to Gov. Roosevelt at Albany.

Newspapers have predicted that Crain will not be removed, merely censured for laxity.

WESTLAND SETS GOLF PACE

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—While the more famous stars were jeopardizing their qualifying chances by turning in scores far above par, Jack Westland, former intercollegiate star at the University of Washington, now Chicago district champion, took the lead with a 72 in the first 18-hole qualifying round in the National Amateur golf tournament here today.

Westland negotiated the out nine in a brilliant 33, three under par, but was four over par on the homeward journey.

Billy Howell, 19-year-old Virginia titleholder, was in temporary possession of second place with a 76, as the first big wave of finishers came in.

Charles Kocsis, of Detroit, one of the early title favorites, virtually played himself out of the tournament by carding a poor 87 for the first 18 holes. He will have to shoot par golf tomorrow in order to qualify.

Many of the more famous stars were among the late starters, and their scores for the first nine holes were as follows: Johnny Goodman, Omaha, 38; T. Philip Perkins, former British champion, 43; Jimmy Johnston, St. Paul, 1929 champion, 39; Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, 38; Maurice McCarthy, New York, 40; Gene Homans, Englewood, N. J., 40; Charles Seaver, Los Angeles, 38; Cyril Tolley, England, 39.

MACDONALD HINTED AS DICTATOR

Premier to Get Greater Powers If Labor Party Blocks Emergency Issues

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A dictatorship for Great Britain, under the firm hand of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, loomed as a distinct possibility today if the Labor party persists in its determination to block the emergency financial measures planned by the coalition cabinet to balance the budget.

International News Service learned on reliable authority that the Cabinet is determined to put its program into effect immediately and that parliamentary opposition will result in resort to measures similar to those taken by President Von Hindenburg and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening during the recent German crisis.

CABINET GETS POWER

The emergency Cabinet is empowered, by "orders in council," to push through its measures, including reduction of the dole, governmental salary cuts and new taxations, if the Labor bloc in the House of Commons threatens to upset the apple-cart by obstructionist tactics.

Premier MacDonald flew down from Lossiemouth today.

Reiterating his pledge to steer the emergency cabinet through the financial crisis, he made it clear that he has no intention of submitting to the demand of his constitutents in Seaham Harbor that he resign from the House of Commons. He said:

"I am going to see it through. There is no time for delay and I do not intend that any time should be wasted."

PROGRAMS DRAWN

Two committees appointed to draw up the emergency measures will present their programs and full announcement of the Cabinet's plans of reduction in expenditures and increase in revenues to meet the budget deficit is expected shortly.

Shortly before leaving Lossiemouth, Premier MacDonald ex-

Chile Rioters Score 'Yankee Domination'

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 31.—(AP)—After one person was killed and several injured in numerous small clashes over the week-end, Provincial Gov. Julio Bustamente issued an order to police to use "energetic" measures to halt further disorders.

Agitators have been active in stirring up street audiences during the past few days. Circulars have been passed around attacking foreigners and urging reprisals against what they called "Yankee domination."

North Italy 'Razed' In Mimic Air Fight

MILAN, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Most of the larger cities of Northern Italy today were judged so thoroughly "devastated" by the mimic air attack of the past four days as to have become "helpless." An "armistice" was asked by the defending air force in the maneuvers.

Few accidents and only one fatality marked the maneuvers.

SEARCHERS ABANDON DIGGING

Powers Sticks to Story No More Bodies Will Be Found; Visited by Cleric

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Digging for additional bodies on the Quiet Dell love farm of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, alleged love racket slayer of two women and three children, was abandoned late today.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—The possibility of discovering at least two more victims of Clarksburg's modern "Bluebeard" spurred diggers at his Quiet Dell love farm, where five bodies have been found, to a feverish pitch today.

Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius F. Pierson, the 45-year-old love racketeer, has confessed, police say, to the slaying of two widows and three children. Police said Powers told them that is all.

CONVICTS DIGGING

However, despite his insistence that no more will be found, an augmented force of convicts was employed spading the earth around and under the ramshackle "slaughter house" garage and dragging a nearby stream.

Information from Worcester, Mass., that Powers, while courting Mrs. Dorothy P. Lemke, fifth known victim, was seen to carry bundles and appeared interested in a hole dug for a tank near the hotel where he was a guest, gave impetus to the search.

The theory was that Powers

SLAIN WOMAN'S $1,533 GONE

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, one of the five persons Harry F. Powers, of Clarksburg, W. Va., has admitted he murdered, closed out her account at the Mechanics Savings Bank by withdrawing $1,533 cash, on July 28, bank records disclosed today.

It was pointed out that July 28 was the day before Power checked out of the Uxbridge Inn. Two days later the couple left for the West.

Mrs. Evna Nelson, of Boston, a sister of Mrs. Lemke, said:

"Dorothy never would listen to our advice against matrimonial agencies."

Mrs. Lemke met her husband, Adolph Lemke, a St. Paul contractor, through a matrimonial agency, and after living with him 10 years in St. Paul, divorced him in Worcester in 1924, she declared.

Charles Flemming, a brother-in-law, of Northboro, described Powers, who came to his Northboro home July 27 and left next day with Mrs. Lemke, as "courteous," adding that "you couldn't help liking him."

Navy Favors Akron Hop Here

Admiral W. R. Sexton, chief of naval air operations, today expressed himself as favorably inclined to the Chamber of Commerce proposal that the new Navy air giant dirigible fly over Pittsburgh on its maiden flight.

In answering an invitation extended through Congressman Edmund F. Erk, Admiral Sexton referred the invitation to Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, who will have charge of the ship.

The Chamber of Commerce through its president, Thomas F. Dunn, 10 days ago began its effort to have the big ship fly over Pittsburgh.

Lindy Gives High Japanese Officials Aviation Pointers

TOKIO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The most brilliant mid-summer affair of its kind here in many years—a dinner given by Premier Wakatsuki—tonight ended the ambitious round of official ceremonies in honor of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

About 50 persons attended, including W. Cameron Forbes, American Ambassador. Tomorrow the Lindberghs will go to Karuizawa, where they will be guests for several days at the summer home of Ambassador Forbes. There they will have a view of the volcano, Mount Asama.

Col. Lindbergh today addressed 600 Army and Navy aviation officials and a group of civilian aviators, talking on the progress of aeronautics in America. He spoke particularly of the development of night flying and the utilization of radio. The listeners asked many questions after the lecture, which was interpreted as he went along.

Rope Shot to High Stack Saves Man; Aide Killed

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. —(AP)—Nerves of steel and a stout heart kept 63-year-old James Kemp, steeplejack, clinging to a precarious foothold on a 10-inch ledge at the top of a 150-foot chimney today until rescued—two hours after his fellow worker, Gondolfo Di Primo, 40, had plunged to death when a scaffold broke.

The two men were working on a tiny scaffold near the top of the stack when the scaffolding slipped.

While firemen with outstretched life nets awaited Kemp's fall, which seemed inevitable, another crew of rescuers attempted to fire a line over the top of the stack with a rope-gun.

The fifth shot draped a rope over the chimney top and, foot by foot, Kemp hauled in the light line with a heavier rope attached. With a solid hold on him to grasp, Kemp soon drew up a second line with a small swing attached into which he stepped and was carefully let down.

Without assistance he walked into the emergency room of the Yawman and Erbe plant. He said:

"I knew better than to let the thing scare me."

Kemp sensed the slipping of the scaffold. He grasped the rope instinctively and clung fast. His body brushed the chimney and his feet found the 10-inch ledge.

In the face of a stiff breeze the slightest movement meant death. For more than two hours he watched the desperate rescue attempts—and held on.

Ladders failed to reach him and the approach to the top of the stack through the interior was impossible because of heat and gases generated by the fire in the boilers of the factory.

FRENCH LEADER PROPOSES LEAGUE CONTROL OF ARMIES

PAUL-BONCOUR FOR MORTGAGE ON ARMS

Statesman Urges Council Make Use of Forces to Stop Wars of Aggression

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP)—A proposal that the nations of the world place their armed forces under the control of the League of Nations and a prediction that disarmament would lead the way to 1932 disarmament conference was made today by Paul Boncour, chairman of the chamber of Deputies foreign relations committee, in a statement to the Associated Press.

Boncour, who will be French delegate to the disarmament conference, said:

"When the disarmament conference agrees upon the actual figures of the defense strength of each country, our idea is that these forces should cease to be forces left entirely to the disposition of these countries and that there should be an international mortgage upon them.

"I mean that the council of the League of Nations, when face to face with a case of proved war of aggression should be empowered under Article 16 of the League covenant to make use of them to settle a war crisis.

"The failure of the disarmament conference would be the signal for the rearmament of powers which under the peace treaties are subjected to special limitations. Germany has told us this clearly and Hungary thinks as Germany."

AN INTERESTED SPECTATOR By Quin Hall

Powers Describes Killing Five

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31—"They took it quietly."

Thus Harry Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, 45-year-old love racketeer, police say, summed up his alleged confession, that he had killed Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, her three children, and Mrs. Dorothy P. Lemke, Worcester, Mass., widow.

Took it quietly—with a rope around their necks squeezing their life out of them.

Powers is quoted as saying he hit the 10-year-old Eicher boy on the head with a hammer. His bashed-in head bears mute testimony that he didn't have to suffer long. One blow was enough to kill him, according to medical authorities. But there were two. He probably "took it quietly."

The love racket-killer made a full confession of West Virginia's most heinous crime to state and city police yesterday during an hour's steady questioning. He said, according to jailer:

"I killed them all the same day. Mrs. Eicher came first, then her two youngest children, Harry, 12, and Anabel, 9. Then Mrs. Lemke and Greta Eicher."

Police asked:

"Why did you do it, Powers?"

SHIELDS MOTIVE

His answer was not very enlightening.

"I don't want to talk about that."

Powers told of bringing the widow and her three children from Park Ridge, Ill., to Fairmont some time during the latter part of June. He said he could not remember exact dates. He left them in Fairmont, making trips back to Chicago first to get the widow's money deposited in an Illinois bank, then to ship back trunks and personal effects on the pretext of taking them for a long trip.

He said on one of the trips from Fairmont he went to Massachusetts to get Mrs. Lemke, another matrimonial agency correspondent. He left Northboro in company with her July 29. From this point police said the love butcher's memory became clearer. He told police they said:

"I drove Mrs. Lemke to Uniontown, where I left her and went on down to Fairmont. She followed the next day.

"The same afternoon I took Mrs. Eicher and her children together with Mrs. Lemke in my car to Clarksburg. I drove out to the farm."

Interrupting police asked:

"What happened then?"

His answer, according to police was:

"I took them into the garage and put Mrs. Eicher in a room by herself. Mrs. Lemke in another room, the two youngest children in a room and left Greta in the other room."

Powers said he left them and went out of the garage.

Returning later in the night, he confessed, police say, the slaughter started.

"I took a rope and went into Mrs. Eicher's room. I put the rope around her neck and strangled her.

"She took it quietly."

And the others — Mrs. Lemke, the good-natured romantic widow from Massachusetts, and the three children, quivering in the darkness waiting for a monster in human form to decide their fate.

STRUCK YOUTH

Continuing, police quoted him:

"Then I went into the room where the two children were. I hit Harry, Mrs. Eicher's son, with a hammer. The girl I strangled with a rope and then I went back and, strangled Greta and Mrs. Lemke."

Powers concluded:

"They took it quietly."

Clarksburg's chief of police Clarence Duckworth, asked:

"Do you know you'll very likely hang for this?"

Blinking his owlish eyes, Powers replied:

"I'll bet you're afraid to go to a hanging."

Then he told of burying the bodies in a drainage ditch, police said, where they were uncovered Friday and Saturday.

"When it was late I came back and buried them."

"There are no more bodies—you can dig if you want to, but you won't find any more."

Authorities doubt some of the details of Powers' confession.

DOUBT SOME DETAILS

They ask:

"How could a man of his bullish proportions kill five people all in full possession of their faculties at one time?

The theory has been advanced that Mrs. Eicher and her children were killed sometime probably in the latter part of July and Mrs. Lemke was killed about a week later. The conditions of the bodies substantiates this theory in that Mrs. Lemke's body was in a better state of preservation than the others.

TWO MISSING FEARED SLAIN

may concealed something, possibly letters or clothing, in the hole.

Fears that Stamaras Sfikdas, former proprietor of a Clarksburg shoe shine parlor, may have met the same fate as Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children and Mrs. Lemke, were entertained today by police.

MISSING SINCE JUNE 10

Sfikdas has been missing since June 10. He is said to have been a close friend of Powers and acquaintances said they contemplated going into business together.

Search for possible clues to reveal the whereabouts of Miss Florence McCartney, who Chicago detectives feared may have been a victim of the love racketeer, was halted almost abruptly as it was started. A short time after Clarksburg detectives had been asked to ascertain if Miss McCartney was involved, a message came saying she had been located.

Excavation of the cistern near the garage, one of the focal points of today's search, was completed shortly after noon. It was found empty save for debris as the augmented gang of convicts began dragging the nearby creek.

CLERIC VISITS POWERS

Meanwhile, in the county jail here, Powers was visited by the Rev. T. E. Gainer.

Gainer declared the prisoner to be in the best mental and physical condition. eH said:

"He even appears cheerful. No, he does not talk about the killings. He has never told me he ever killed anyone. Always, when I question him about the slayings he brings up the mysterious name of Charles Rogers, who he says comes from Pittsburgh.

"Rodgers, Powers tells me, often visited him here and a woman of my own acquaintance just last night verified this, at least in part. She told me she had met 'Mr. Rodgers' upon one occasion not long ago in company with Powers.

"Powers has admitted several times to me that he brought Mrs. Eicher, her three children, and Mrs. Lemke to Fairmont. There he stops and shifts the entire blame for the murder on this man Rodgers.

"Honestly, I don't know what to make of the man."

FIND GAS MASK

Discovery of a gas mask under a corner of Powers' home here caused authorities to believe that the basement of the Quiet Dell garage may have been designed for asphyxiation of persons by means of natural gas. There were gas jets in the basement of the garage in which Powers confessed he put his victims to death.

Police said today they believed Powers may have kept his victims captive in the subterranean vaults under the garage to force from them papers giving him the right to their properties, such as notes, deeds, checks, etc.

His weapons for persuasion, police said, may have been asphyxiation, starvation, hanging and hammer killing.

Dr. Edward E. Mayer, University of Pittsburgh psychiatrist, interviewed Powers for two hours yesterday. Today Dr. Mayer said that his two-hour talk with the man had shown him to be "normal and shrewd." The doctor added:

"There is absolutely nothing of the maniac in the man's bearing."

NEW DEVELOPMENT HINTED

Clarksburg's chief of police Clarence Duckworth, left his temporary headquarters in the county jail today on a mysterious mission. Refusing to reveal the nature of his hurried trip, Duckworth, smiling sifinicantly, added:

"This may develop into something."

A creek running alongside the charnel garage also is to be searched for bodies. It is generally feared that Powers might have done away with other matrimonial agency sweethearts. He is known to have been in constant communication with women the length and breadth of the United States for many years.

CURIOSITY SPURS SEARCH

Powers' curiosity led to the search of the creek bed. He asked fellow prisoners:

"Have they searched the creek bed yet?"

Search of the burned ashes of a bonfire in the back of Powers' garage today disclosed an address book containing 42 names. It was inclosed in a blue envelope and was said to have been the property of Mrs. Lemke.

Out-of-Town Idle To Be Barred In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Out-of-towners, unemployed or penniless, are not welcome in New York City this winter.

The city serves notice that it cannot and will not receive the usual winter parade of the hungry drifting into the city for work, or at least a little food and shelter usually furnished by some charitable organization.

The municipal lodging house is planning to care for 800,000 lodgers and to serve 3,000,000 meals this winter. That won't even take care of native New Yorkers needing that aid, let alone others.

Welfare Commissioner Taylor and Police Commissioner Mulrooney plan to keep outsiders on "the move," or, if they are hoboes, give them a stiff sentence at hard labor.

Two Policemen Suspended Working for Bread Line

Police Chief M. J. Colback and Lieut. Clarence Urbansky, of Glassport, were under a 10-day suspension today, imposed by Burgess Sewaric Gross on charges of insubordination. The officers are charged by the Burgess with stopping motorists on the highway for the purpose of selling them tickets for a benefit dance held in connection with the maintenance of a bread line run by the police department for needy families.

Between 35 and 40 destitute families are fed daily at the bread line. Proceeds of the dance held Saturday, for which the officers are accused of selling tickets in violation of the Burgess' orders, were used toward defraying expenses of the bread line. The Burgess' order was based on the state motor code, which prohibits the stopping of motorists by solicitors.

The Daily Mail, in a featured article, demanded Britain abandon Palestine and Iraq, which the paper declared had cost Britain some $1,500,000,000 since the armistice.

In support of its argument the Mail cited France's recent abandonment of its mandate over Syria because of the cost of upkeep. The newspaper suggested Italy might make good use of Palestine and Iraq as outlets for her surplus population.

Marines Unhurt as Planes Collide 1,500 Feet Up; Mrs. Omlie Wins Derby

International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 31—Unstopped by their dramatic escape from death by jumping with their parachutes, two Marine fliers, Lieut. L. A. Sanderson and Lieut. W. O. Brice, were to take part in the second day's activities of the National Air Races.

The two aviators crashed when flying in a formation of nine planes at an altitude of 1,500 feet and landed without injury.

The big event of the second day was the scheduled speed race from Los Angeles. Jimmy Doolittle and five others were to take off at 3:30 o'clock, coast time (7:30 Pittsburgh time) and if he has any luck, Doolittle said he might continue to New York in an effort to crack Capt. Frank Hawks' record of 12 hours 25 minutes and 3 seconds for the transcontinental dash.

Prizes in this race total $15,000. The entrants were Doolittle, Harold Johnson, Chicago; Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Washington; Lou Reichers, Arlington, N. J., and Walter J. Hunter, of the refueling Hunters of Sparta, Ill., and James R. Weddel, Paterson, La.

Fifty-one of 61 ships that started at Santa Monica a week ago finished the handicap air derby yesterday. Unofficial winners were Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, Tenn., in the women's division, and D. C. Warren, Alameda, Cal., among the men. Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Pittsburgh, finished fifth.

Society Fliers to Race From N. Y. to Cleveland

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Blue bloods of the aviation world, men and women who fly for fun instead of fortune, are to stage America's first cross country air derby exclusively for amateurs in connection with the National Air Races at Cleveland.

The race, to be flown from New York to Cleveland, is a surprise event and was not listed on the program being announced for the first time today. It will be a handicap affair, open to all private owners of planes who use their ships purely for pleasure and so come under the designation of amateurs.

Among early entrants are W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., Jessamine Goddard, social registerite from Booklin, Me.; Vernone Shaw Kennedy, Laura Morgan, Lawrence Turnure and Margery Doig.

The planes will leave the field of the Aviation Country Club at Hicksville, L. I., at 1:30 Thursday afternoon.

FLIER REGRETS END OF RACE

By LOUISE THADEN

Winner in the 1929 National Air Derby for Women, and Pittsburgh's Representative in the 1931 Cross-Country Derby.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31—Well, it's over. None of us seems to be able to realize it.

We are separated now, perhaps never to be together again. Personally I feel sort of let down.

Now that it's all over, I suspect being one of the also rans" has something to do with the feeling I'm more sorry that I failed to bring home the bacon to Pittsburgh than I am that I failed to win the derby.

It has been a wonderful experience. Again I've learned lots of things and feel that I am twice as good a pilot as when I left. Phoebe Omlie won first place.

There is only one reason I didn't win this year, and that is that the other girls outflew me. To those who made possible by entry in the derby this year I wish to acknowledge a debt of gratitude and say that I have considered it a great honor and privilege to carry the colors of Pittsburgh again. I'm sorry not to have done better. My best was not quite good enough.

I tried hard, and that's the most anyone could do, so for the last time as we close these accounts—cheerio, Pittsburgh.

(Mrs. Thaden wrote exclusively for the Sun-Telegraph of her air experiences in this year's races.)

BOY HIKER HELD IN SHOOTING

A hitch-hiking adventure of two North Side boys ended in Morals Court today for Harold "Buddy" Jack, 15, of 5 Flocker way. He was held over in connection with the shooting of Carl Gaertner, 16, of 49 Flocker way, now convalescing in the Pittsburgh Hospital.

Gaertner told police the shooting was an accident. Jack was apprehended in Lancaster, Pa., and given a hearing before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones.

Jack told the court the pair had started for Philadelphia to get jobs, that they were examining a revolver in Lincoln avenue extension, when it was discharged. Jack said:

"It was my father's gun, but we had taken it to shoot rabbits along the way if our money gave out. We only had $1."

After the shooting, he said, he told a man his "buddy," Carl, was hurt, and then continued on his way.

Hall Again to Back Flight Around World

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31—(AP)—A new round-the-world flight to start from Oklahoma City next May or June was announced here today by Florence C. Hall, Oklahoma City oil man, who backed the flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty this summer.

A duplicate of the Winnie Mae, which Post and Gatty flew, will be piloted by Frank Hoover, of Oklahoma City, said Hall, who was here attending the National Air Races. He said the navigator had not been chosen.

Airports Linked By Flying Ferry

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(INS)—A shuttle service by transport lines and an hourly sight-seeing service linking airports will go into effect here next Thursday, it was announced today.

The air ferry will connect Floyd Bennett Field and Glenn H. Curtiss Airport with six air transport lines operating out of Newark Airport.

DRY CZAR PUTS BAN ON USE OF INFORMERS

Orders Snoopers Be Dropped Where Possible Without Impairing Enforcement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock said today he favored elimination of the use of paid informers by federal dry agents in every section where this practice could be abolished without disturbing dry law enforcement efforts.

The prohibition director's indication of his new policy followed a general order by the Prohibition Bureau last week banning the payment of any federal funds to women informers and prohibiting their employment as "blinds" or "decoys."

FUND KEPT SECRET

Woodcock said he believed the use of informers in dry law enforcement was declining naturally as agents became more efficient, but added that in some sections, such as the District of Columbia, agents and police believed their use necessary and the Prohibition Bureau paid the bill. Informers' pay, he indicated, ranged from between $5 to $10 a day.

A saving of $150,000 through economies in dry enforcement during the past year was announced by Woodcock as partly due to the elimination of informers and the more effective placement of agents, together with cooperation by district attorneys to prevent agents appearing unnecessarily as witnesses.

The Prohibition Bureau's request for appropriations for the next fiscal year already has gone to the Budget Bureau, he said, but he would not disclose whether the sum requested was an increase or decrease from the $13,000,000 obtained by the bureau last year.

PLANE DISABLED

The single airplane comprising the bureau's "air corps" has been temporarily disabled by fire but Woodcock hopes to put it in the air again and possibly to build up a regular dry law enforcement airplane squadron.

Woodcock said the plane had caught fire on one of its early flights, causing damage of about $150. It was used along the lower Mississippi River.

During its short tour of duty, the plane located and was instrumental in seizing one illicit still.

COURT TO RULE ON VOTE LIST

ther, 131,000 persons had paid the 50-cent poll tax.

DOUBLE ENTRY

Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, acting chairman of the bar association committee, brought out during questioning of Drumm that a poll tax receipt had been issued, in the name of Fred Carter twice on July 16.

Drumm said this could happen by Carson's name being listed through an order presented by an agent and later or earlier in the day by Carson's personal appearance. Neither of these entries, he said, would be posted until late the day they were made or the next morning and there would be no way of determining at the time of the second receipt was issued that the first had already been given out.

Attorney John M. Henry, presenting the Bar Association's argument, told the court that the system of affidavits which the tax board was using instead of the certification method which he said was required by law is dangerous, He said:

"Thousands of these affidavits are roaming around loose and the avenue of fraud is wide open. There is practically no way to check the assessments under this system."

DECISION AWAITED

Mortimer B. Lesher, County Solicitor, represented the tax board and said that the members had done everything possible to prevent fraud. He said the affidavits were an additional precaution taken voluntarily by the board and declared that the means of certification was dependent entirely upon interpretation of the act of 1931, now covering the operation for the first time.

Schad ordered all assessments except those in the Seventeenth Ward, home district of his political sponsor, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong — stopped when the writ of mandamus for the hearing was served on Thursday.

Peace Near, Italy Turns Clubs Back to Church

ROME, Aug. 31—(AP)—Meeting places of Catholic Clubs throughout Italy, which have been in the custody of the police since Premier Mussolini's order dissolving Catholic Action, are being quietly returned to the church authorities in anticipation of a settlement of the controversy between the church and state.

Several thousand clubrooms already have been turned over and others are being surrendered daily. In Rome the situation is to be handled separately and none of the club quarters has yet been turned back to the church.

Premier Mussolini directed police prefects on Saturday to release the clubrooms in their charge, and this preliminary step is regarded as an indication that an accord between the government and the Vatican has been reached in principle, although some details remain to be settled.

The Rev. Tacchi Venturi, a special emissary between the Pope and the Premier, saw the latter on Saturday and conferred again with the Pope yesterday.

Spain May Take Over Church Properties

MADRID, Aug. 31—(INS)—Adoption by the Republican National Cortes of Article XV of the constitution providing for nationalization of church property valued at more than $100,000,000, seemed a distinct possibility here today.

Spain has more than 5,000 monasteries and convents, housing 10,000 monks and 38,000 nuns who would be dispossessed should the article be adopted.

POWERS 'SHREWD AND NORMAL MAN,' PSYCHIATRIST SAYS

PITT ALIENIST FINDS NO SIGN OF INSANITY

'Mail Romeo' Bucolic Type, Dr. Mayer Asserts After Interview With Prisoner

Harry F. Powers, matrimonial Bluebeard held in Clarksburg, W. Va., for the alleged killing of two women and three children, is a "normal and shrewd" man, according to Dr. Edward E. Mayer, University of Pittsburgh psychiatrist.

Dr. Mayer, who examined Harry Thaw, when the latter sought his freedom on an insanity plea after killing Standford White, spent two hours with Powers alone in his cell yesterday.

Speaking at his home in the Wendover Apartments today, Dr Mayer said:

"If you omit this man's confession of these horrible killings, he is nothing more than a farmer type who has drifted into city life.

"His face is the pudgy type you see much more often in the country than in the city.

"While the man is to be classified as 'normal' he has been weak sexually since childhood. This is a condition which frequently leads to unnatural relations in later life."

"He doesn't impress one as a man of abilities.

"Neither does he impress you as a disagreeable personality.

"After you have talked with him, you become aware of a native shrewdness.

"At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when I talked with him, he denied the killings.

"I asked him about his confession and he said it was made to escape further infliction of the 'third degree' by police officers.

"I asked him about the bodies being found near his garage and he said, 'I'll explain that at the trial.'

"There is absolutely nothing of the maniac in the man's bearing and his speech is coherent.

"I cannot understand reports that he 'jibbered' when talking to police and newspapermen, for his speech was clear and his choice of English excellent when he conversed with me."

'LOVE BUREAU' QUIZ LOOMS

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Dr. Albert B. Plater and his wife, Olga, sponsors of the matrimonial bureau through which Harry F. Powers, confessed Clarksburg multi-murderer, met his victims, returned to their $100,000 home in fashionable Grosse Pointe Park here today and barricaded themselves against newspapermen and investigators.

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy hesitated in ordering an arrest, he said. They will be asked to appear for questioning at the prosecutor's office, Toy stated.

"The matrimonial bureau was the subject of a federal investigation three years ago and, at that time, was given a clean bill of health."

Plater, a slight, dark man of middle age, shouted to an International News Service a list of the questions which the "mail order lover" was asked when he joined the "Friendship Society."

The doctor refused admittance and literally yelled the questions through a closed door.

Powers' Fiancees Sought in All States

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—In almost every state today, police and postal authorities sought women who had written Clarksburg's sensation of the hour, Harry Powers, wooer of the nation's lonely women.

They searched, too, in the hope the disappearance of many missing women may be solved.

Police revealed today that photographs are being eagerly sought by relatives and authorities interested in unexplained disappearance of many women.

CONFESSES ONE OF 12 KILLINGS

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Duncan C. McCrea, assistant prosecutor, announced today that Mrs. Rose Veras, rooming house proprietor held on a technical charge of homicide following the deaths during the last eight years of 12 men in her home, had confessed to "a party not connected with the prosecutor's office or the police department" that she pushed one of the men from an attic window, the fall causing his death.

McCrea said she told the person, whose name was not revealed, that she pushed Stephen Mak, last of the 12 men to die from an attic window after attempts to poison him had failed.

Harry S. Toy, prosecuting attorney, said he would not reveal how the confession was obtained.

Seventy-five life insurance policies were found in Mrs. Veras' home when she was arrested, several of them on the lives of men who died in the home. Officials said Mrs. Veras held at least $6,400 insurance on Mak. McCrea said that the woman denied complicity in the other deaths.

New Figure Quizzed On Missing Japanese

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—A man of mystery, known to police as James Collins, was to be questioned today in the disappearance of Hishashi Fujimura, millionaire Japanese importer, from the liner Belgenland.

Collins is in jail on a charge of posing as a Department of Justice agent. He is believed to have known racketeers to whom the importer paid $200,000. Owney Madden, "big shot" racketeer, may also be questioned.

BODIES WILL BE CREMATED HERE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—The bodies of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, slain Park Ridge (Ill.) widow, and her three children, will be sent to Pittsburgh for cremation, Chief of Police Harold W. Johnson, of Park Ridge, announced today.

The ashes of the four victims of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, 45-year-old love racketeer, will be buried by those of Mrs. Eicher's husband at Park Ridge.

Plans for cremation of the bodies were completed today as Chief Johnson was advised the only living relative of Mrs. Eicher — an aunt — had been found living in La Jolla, Cal. The aunt, Mrs. Sahra Jennie Larsen, was located through Christian Nelson, of Denver, Col., first reported as a relative, but later proved an old family friend.

Park Ridge police attempted to communicate with her by telephone. She was unable to hear them, and promised to send all the information she has regarding the family by telegram immediately.

Ski Slide Elevation Reaches 4,200 Feet

MT. SHASTA CITY, Cal.—(INS.)—With the view of providing this locality with one of the best ski slides, work has been started on clearing an area 1,200 feet long and 250 feet wide on Mt. Shasta. The slide will be at an elevation of 4,200 feet and will be half way between the Pacific highway and the town of McCloud. Siguard Uulland, one of the foremost ski artists in the country, who has been living here for the past six months, will supervise the work.

PAYNE WHITNEY ESTATE GROWS 45 MILLIONS

Great Increase in 2 Years Since Death Due to Rise In Value of Stock Held

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Final accounting of the estate of the late Payne Whitney was filed today revealing the value of the estate increased $45,306,372 during the two years between the death of the financier, sportsman and philanthropist, and distribution of the various legacies.

Whitney died on May 25, 1927, while playing tennis at his country estate. He was 52 and left an estate valued at $186,579,746, the largest in the history of the Transfer Tax Bureau. When the bequests were paid in May of 1929 the estate had appreciated to $239,301,017.

BEAT STOCK CRASH

Increase in value of the estate was realized principally in a block of 44,863 shares of Northern Finance Corporation, which was appraised as being worth $111,436,190 at the time of Whitney's death and $160,705,546 on transfer to the legatees. Northern Finance Corporation was a holding company founded by Oliver H. Payne, associate of John D. Rockefeller in the founding of the Standard Oil Company, and founder of the Payne fortune.

Transfer of the legacies took place several months before the stock market crash, so the ensuing sharp decline in many security values was not reflected in the final accounting filed with the surrogate today.

MILLIONS FOR CHARITY

The accounting shows that the executors paid $17,364,012 for New York state inheritance, transfer and estate taxes; $4,380,013 for federal taxes; $353,886 for Maine taxes; $26,376 for Ohio taxes, and $44,985 for taxes in other states. Income taxes assessed against the estate amounted to $2,223,087, and debts, funded expenses and administration costs were $13,542,056.

The will left millions to charities beside enormous bequests to relatives and gifts of $500,000 to three personal friends, including Finley Peter Dunne, author.

PROBE POWERS LINK HERE

Belief that some of Pittsburgh's missing women and girls may have been victims of the confessed archslayer, Harry Powers, in Clarksburg, W. Va., has led police here in action.

City detective Michael Feeney, head of the Missing Persons Bureau, has instructed the six policewomen under his command to scan records of all missing women and girls and furnish any information that might be of significance to Clarksburg police.

Feeney said today that each policewoman keeps a separate index of cases she investigates, and that all available information will be compiled at once in an effort to learn if any of the missing have fallen prey to the confessed West Virginia slayer.

Religious Rioters Burn Bombay Shops

BOMBAY, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Serious communal rioting between Moslems and Hindus broke out in Chittagong today.

A Moslem mob looted and burned numerous Hindu shops in reprisal for the murder last night of a Moslem police inspector.

Hindus were thrown into panic and business was at a standstill. Chittagong was the scene of a bloody riot last year.

GIRL THWARTS MOVIE HOLDUP

A holdup man who ran into the Warner Theater and mingled with the audience after he failed to obtain the receipts of the midnight performance from the ticket seller at the Diamond street entrance early today, eluded a score of police who surrounded the theater and searched the building from cellar to roof.

The fugitive, described to police as being about 22 years old and well dressed, approached the ticket window and demanded money from Mrs. Anna Baier, 38, of 1329 Saturn street, North Side. She pushed a small pile of change in his direction, but he motioned it back.

While Mrs. Baier played for time by arguing with the man, Earl Roeser, manager of the Palace Theater, on the opposite side of the street, walked into the entrance and Mrs. Baier called to him to seize the intruder.

Before Roeser could act, the man turned and ran into the theater and disappeared.

GANG KILLERS MISS PREY, SHOOT GIRL

Brooklyn Warfare Perils Scores; Two Arrests Clear Recent Slaughter, Holdups

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Extortionists were blamed today for the wounding of an 18-year-old girl, as two gangsters poured bullets into a Brooklyn street crowded with children.

The gangsters missed their intended victim, but Jennie Ballantino, 18, was struck on the arm as she stood talking to friends on a street corner.

Police said the six or eight shots fired were intended for Joseph Santora, 45, a boss stevedore and longshoreman and the father of 12 children. He had reported to police Saturday that two men had attempted to extort money from him.

CHILDREN PERILED

Santora was found running from the scene and police said he had been standing in range of the gunmen. The bullets whizzed past him and struck the girl a block away.

Scores of children, playing in the street, ran to safety as the shooting started. More than 150 children saw the gangsters drive through the street in an automobile and open fire. They escaped without pursuit.

The shooting occured last evening just as police had made two strides in their fight against gangsters.

Detectives in Brooklyn arrested "English" Wolfsohn and his gang, charged with at least two murders and scores of holdups.

TWO-GUN MAN HELD

In New York, another squad of detectives arrested Ernest Soricelli, of the "Dutch" Schultz gang. Police took two guns away from him. They said he was searching for Vincent Coll, a gang leader, whom Soricellia charged with the murder of his brother, Jack. Coll, wanted for questioning in the recent Harlem baby shootings, is hiding on the East Side here, Soricelli said.

Police said Wolfsohn had admitted members of his gang lined up three men against a wall in Brooklyn recently and shot them.

Anthony Ferrari, a rival, was killed and two of his henchmen wounded in the attack. Police claimed the two wounded men had identified several members of the Wolfsohn gang as the men who shot them.

PHILA. ON VERGE OF GANG WAR

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Philadelphia and Camden police officials said today they were taking precautions to prevent gang warfare in reprisal for the slaying of Michael J. (Mickey) Duffy, gangster, in an Atlantic City hotel Saturday afternoon.

Duffy, who had a long police record and whose right name was Michael Cusick, was found dead in bed with five bullet wounds.

Duffy's wife, who was in Atlantic City at the time of the shooting, has returned to her home here and is closely guarded by Duffy's friends. She is quoted as saying:

"There is absolutely no light I can shed on the murder. I didn't know his companions or his business."

Policemen's Caps Protested by Wives

DENVER—(INS.)—The new eight-point cap recently adopted by the Denver police force may be a pretty nifty article, but some of the coppers' wives don't think so. As a result the design of the sky pieces is to the changed radically. The objection, it seems, is that the cops are too squatty and give the impression of lying down on the job. One policeman said his wife asked him if a building had fallen on him.

Divorces Double in Decade But Marriages Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—The divorced population of the nation more than doubled between 1920 and 1930, but nevertheless the institution of matrimony is making steady gains in the United States, the Census Bureau reported today.

Bureau statisticians revealed that despite the divorce gain, there is an increase in the percentage of married citizens over 15 years old.

The deduction, according to experts, is that marriage is more popular than ever—but it may not last so long.

For the first time in the history of the census, the number of divorced persons crossed the million mark in 1930. The figures show 1,062,726 divorced in 1930, as compared to 568,588 in 1920. Figured in percentages, divorced people made up 1.1 per cent of the population over 15 years old in 1930 and but six-tenths of 1 per cent 10 years before.

The statisticians have found the greatest percentage of married men and woman on farms.

There are more divorced men and women living in California than in any other state. The report shows 59,586 divorced men in that state and 68,567 women. Despite the Reno "divorce mill" divorced people make up a small percentage of Nevada's population, only 1,574 divorced men and 911 divorced women. Divorced men living in various states include: New York, 22,117; Pennsylvania, 21,287.

Wife Stands by Powers Despite Accusations

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Although she may now realize the sinister motives which could have been in her husband's mind when he sought to insure her for $5,000 a year ago, Mrs. Harry Powers still will stand by her husband, held in the murder of five persons.

His sensational, though short career as a modern Bluebeard, preying upon women and children falling into his clutches through matrimonial bureau memberships, have failed to shake the unwavering faith of the wife, She said:

"During the last 12 months he gave me but $12. But whose business is that? If I see fit to feed him and let him sleep in my bed, it is my own affair. I know lots of men who sit around the house if their wives have money. Yes, I am well aware that he wanted to insure me for $5,000 and make himself beneficiary."

LOYAL TO POWERS

She admitted she knew little of him prior to his coming to Clarksburg four years ago to marry her. Her aunt married Powers' uncle.

Asked if she still loved him, she replied:

"I am still Mrs. Powers, and I will do just what Mrs. Powers should do."

She was asked:

"Did you ever ask him how he earned a living—what was his business?"

Her reply was stinging:

"His business was his own, the same as mine was, and still is."

REPORT GUN THREAT

Mrs. Powers, a heavy-set, slow-witted woman of 40 odd years, drove one newspaperman away from her home with a gun, according to reports.

To inquirers who asked if she believed her husband killed five persons, Mrs. Powers said:

"He said he done it, didn't he?"

"Would you give money for his defense if he asks you?"

"I haven't much money."

Mrs. Powers indicated that she would not be a volunteer witness at his trial, saying:

"What good will that do? I don't know nothing about him."

Kearcher [illegible]

Kohnke [illegible] Squire Kearcher. I understand you are going around in the ward removing my signs from grocery, confectionery stores and private homes. If you support Eddie Riley for Alderman, I am going to have your stripes removed. Joe Armstrong is going to be the boss.

The [illegible] was for Kearcher to [illegible] Riley was [illegible] Kearcher [illegible] the ward [illegible] and [illegible] Kohnke said [illegible] signs [illegible] Riley.

Kearcher [illegible]

"I called up Sergt. Kohnke and told him to lay off of me and not to condemn me to my followers. Why should I jeopardize any man? He works for the city and naturally must be with them, but he will have to stop telling people that I was no good and other things like that. In regard to threatening him I did not mention anything about removing his stripes. That is out of my jurisdiction."

M'GOVERN LAYS GAS TAX LOSS TO ARMSTRONG

Independent Cites History In Patronage to Account For Road Fund Shortage

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong today was blamed for Allegheny County's failure to receive a share of the state gasoline tax for construction of its roads.

The charge was made by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, running as an Armstrong ticket in the election, in a speech before the Independent Republican Committee of the Fourteenth Ward, Mount Oliver.

Armstrong last [illegible] made a [illegible] speech [illegible] said the county was [illegible] [illegible] the state [illegible] [illegible] gasoline tax and being [illegible] [illegible]

BLAMES ARMSTRONG

Alexander McGovern said:

"No one but Commissioner Armstrong is to blame for the fact that but 8 per cent of the $7,656,231 collected in Allegheny County through motor vehicle and gasoline taxation is spent on road improvement in this county.

"One has only to study the political history of Allegheny County and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the past six years to fix the responsibility directly upon Joseph G. Armstrong.

"Following former Gov. John S. Fisher's nomination, W. L. Mellon was elected chairman of the Republican State Committee and Joseph G. Armstrong chairman of the Allegheny County Republican Committee.

DISPENSED PATRONAGE

"In return for his services in behalf of Fisher, Armstrong demanded and received recognition as the sole dispenser of state patronage and political matters in Allegheny County.

"Penrose in his palmiest days never dictated so ruthlessly as Fisher and Armstrong dictated to the Legislatures of 1927 and 1929.

"What Armstrong wanted in the way of legislation for Allegheny County he obtained from Fisher without cavil or question.

"Armstrong named James Hall Stuart as secretary of highways, and Samuel Eckels chief engineer of the Department of Highways.

"So, if Mr. Stuart and Mr. Eckels did not give Allegheny County a fair share of its improvements from 1927 to 1931 it is up to Mr. Armstrong to explain.

"He and his appointees were good friends when they left office."

"I am told that our good brother, Patton, in his early days, was a very wicked man and lived a very wicked life. But the beginning of an impelling conviction of his responsibility to God resulted in his later conversion and subsequent faith, which has been his support and anchor down unto this day."

ELSNER OUSTED IN SULLIVAN'S DISTRICT

Magistrate, 7 Lieutenants, 2 Captains Involved In Latest Transfers

In an apparent effort to whip Congressman P. J. Sullivan's strip district into line for the Kline-Coyne ticket at the primary election, a police magistrate and an inspector of that district were moved today in a shakeup which also involved ten police captains, seven lieutenants and two magistrates' clerks.

Mr. [illegible] Inspector [illegible] O'Connell [illegible] Police [illegible] Police Chief [illegible] been transferred from [illegible] Oakland. Magistrate William McNamara, Sullivan appointee, has been sent to Oakland, where Coyne has control. O'Connor was given a farewell party by Oakland business men Saturday night. He will be returned to Oakland, it is expected, after the primary.

Mr. O'Connor

Daniel Gross, was [illegible] from the Downtown-Hill district to the Strip as acting captain, and Lieut. Peter J. Delaney, Oakland, also went to the Strip.

Other lieutenants transferred were David Walsh, South Side, and Frank Shine, East Liberty, to Strip; William Millburn, Strip to East End; Clem Austin, Lawrenceville, [illegible] afternoon [illegible] to [illegible] him, and John Held, day to night, Lawrenceville.

Sergt. Joseph Weber, at Penn avenue, was transferred to Overbrook and relieved as clerk to Magistrate McNamara. Sergt. Ralph Barton, Oakland, transferred to Penn avenue remains as clerk to Magistrate James O'Connor.

Mr. McNamara

FIREMEN CHANGED

Safety Director James M. Clark, after announcing the police changes, made these appointments in the Fire Bureau: Hoseman William Madden, appointed captain to succeed Thomas Norton, No. 31 Company, retired. Seven [illegible] were given regular assignments as follows: Francis Anelsburger, John J. Dewalt and John L. King, all of the Twenty-fifth Ward; Edward Heffernan and John Doherty, First Ward; Charles L. Mertz, Twenty-sixth Ward, and Richard Fix, Twenty-ninth Ward.

Additional transfers of sergeants and patrolmen will be made tomorrow, Walsh announced. He and his chief clerk, William Miller, were compiling the list today. He did not disclose the number involved.

Truckman Arrested In Raid Shooting

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Sailor Stevens, truckman, of Scarsdale, N. Y., was arrested today on a charge of shooting Russel Whited, a Federal prohibition agent, during a raid last night in a Bronx casino.

Five agents called at Bracker's Inn. Plates and other missiles were thrown. Then came a pistol shot. Whited dropped, a slight wound in the left thigh.

LOIBL PLEDGES CITY CLEAN-UP

John F. Loibl, director of the City Department of Supplies during part of Mayor Magee's last administration, prominent in Board of Trade circles and leader in German-American activities, who is a candidate for City Council today announced his platform. It follows in part:

"I shall, if elected, vote for the repeal of special legislation designed for the advantage or enrichment of special interests, be it daylight saving ordinances to change the course of the sun in order that a small group of men may have an extra hour of play or be it a 'garbage contract' that enables a private corporation to steal $500,000 from the city and then, when attacked, offer to repay it in open court and be totally absolved.

"I shall not cater to the rapacity and greed of a small group of merchants (mostly outside our city) who have been able to persuade former Councils to allow them to sell dangerous fireworks to children as a result of which hundreds were maimed and crippled yearly."

POSTER GUARD SHOT, ANOTHER IS BEATEN

Bullets Fired at Armstrong Men Imperil Passersby; Candidate Held in Etna

Two more casualties were added to the political poster war with the shooting of one man and the severe beating of another at Penn avenue and Thirty-fourth street yesterday.

Richard Toomey, 26, who gave his address as 2814 Penn avenue, was shot in the leg when six men in an automobile fired a volley of shots into another machine in which Toomey and Fred Finello, 25, of 1220 Bedford avenue, and two other men were riding. After firing, the gunmen began beating Toomey and Finello. Their two companions escaped.

Finello and Toomey were treated at St. Francis Hospital.

Police attributed the fight to the poster warfare. Toomey and Finello were [illegible] of a "cruising squad" which guarded against the tearing down of Armstrong signs.

Pedestrians were endangered when the shooting began. One of the bullets it was reported struck a third-floor window of the home of William Settlemeyer at 3354 Penn avenue.

Toomey and Finello were arrested on suspicious person charges.

William Donley, of Vilsack street, Etna, candidate for constable in that borough, was held today in default of two $500 bonds on charges of fighting and pointing firearms, after he was alleged to have drawn a gun when interrupted while tearing down election signs on Freeport street, Etna, Saturday night, according to police.

DUFF ASSAILS COURT DELAYS

Attorney [illegible] Duff [illegible] candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court today issued a statement [illegible] saying that the [illegible] which is wasting half of every [illegible] could be corrected by the present judges. He declared:

"If the congestion of the calendars of the Common Pleas Court ever is to be removed, the people of this county must realize that it is the product of an antiquated and out-moded system of procedure.

"The system which produced that intolerable congestion and which hinders speedy administration of justice in this county impossible, is but the joint act of the men in commission as judges. Seven judges are candidates for re-election."

Attorney James Philip O'Connor, candidate for one of the four judgeships for County Court, addressed the Knights of Equity outing at Wildwood Park yesterday. Attorney O'Connor, the youngest of the candidates for the County Court position, spoke on youth on the bench. His name appears first on the ballot.

He said:

"A young man who understands young people is needed to hear the cases of the boys and girls who find their way into Juvenile Court. I believe that my experience as a boys' leader, coupled with my youth, would be of great help in rendering prompt and just decisions."

ACHESON BACKS SEVEN JUDGES

Marcus W. Acheson, outstanding lawyer and civic leader, today issued a statement [illegible] the seven present judges of Common Pleas Court who are seeking nominations in the Republican primaries to succeed themselves.

"The candidates are Judges Ambrose B. Reid, Samuel H. Gardner, W. Heber Dithrich, Robert J. Shoo, Joseph Stadtfeld, John P. Egan and William H. McNaugher," Attorney Acheson said.

"Surveying the field of those seeking election to our Common Pleas bench, I think the seven judges already there should be continued in office and not replaced by untried men.

"An experienced judge should not be replaced unless there has been something in his conduct to disqualify him from future service, and certainly there has not been the slightest suggestion of such in the service of the present seven."

Lauds Hearst's Back Views

[illegible]

"In the name of all that is honest and decent in the name of humanity and the brotherhood of man I urge my fellowmen to silence the idle battle clatter and false prophecy about the oncoming march of prosperity that is always just around the corner but never turns that corner whilst the dread spectre of hunger and starvation of millions of our men, women and children is stalking in our midst.

"What a terrible but unanswerable indictment of our government is involved in this situation.

PATHETIC GESTURE

"There is something pathetic and yet ludicrous in the spectacle of a President who has such a hopeless lack of vision as to rail to Washington leading men of the country to organize a committee to raise a petty fund of $6,000,000 by private subscription to relieve the distress.

"What an idiotic gesture. It is about as effective as would be a single drop of water to a regiment of men dying of thirst.

"Once again as when Mr. Hearst vainly tried to keep us out of that accursed war has he proven himself one of the wisest and most farsighted patriots and statesmen of our time.

"There is just one thing and only one to do in such a crisis, and to do instantly—call Congress into special session conscript as much of the surplus income from the men of wealth of the country as is needed.

"If $5,000,000,000 will not do, issue $10,000,000,000 of bonds and increase the tax on all incomes over $50,000.

"Whilst that is a lot of money the need is desperate. It is a mere bagatelle compared with what we are squandering just to maintain prohibition, the worst crime-breeding curse with which any country was ever inflicted.

'SAVE OUR PEOPLE'

"We were able to conscript millions of men, spend billions of dollars, spill the blood of our youth and play the lady bountiful in loans to foreign countries to the tune of over $20,000,000,000 which they have failed to repay, all so that we might do our bit to destroy civilization and help build up the greatest military nation on earth as a standing threat against the future peace of the world, for all of which we have been rewarded by undying hatreds.

"We did not hesitate then. Why do so now.

"Must government always be not only an ass but a brute toward our own people in their dire distress."

"We tried once to save democracy and helped destroy it. Let us now try to save ourselves and our people."

Smoking compartment, Washington-New York plane. Hostess offering Chesterfields. Photos by courtesy Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

Aboard Airliner
Eastern Air Transport

"Dear Peggy

I'm almost too excited to write, and there's so much to see, both inside the plane and out. We've left Washington behind now, and I've just had a Chesterfield in the smoking compartment—they serve them on every ship.

"Among the eighteen passengers there's a senator and a foreign diplomat, and I'm surprised at the number of women. The trip is two hundred miles and the meter in the cabin reads two miles a minute, think of that.

"For me, the Chesterfields were the nicest touch of all. I was just dying for a smoke, and when the hostess passed them (and my favorite cigarette at that) everyone else seemed as tickled as I was. And my—they did taste good!"

Chesterfields are served in the smoking compartments of all these planes—the largest and most luxurious in the East. With the fast growth of air travel, Chesterfield makes many new friends each day, here as in city streets and country homes—wherever good taste counts.

A mild cigarette—delightfully mild and smooth—with a tobacco fragrance all its own.

Whether you're air-minded or not, you'll always find Chesterfield on the air-line to taste—the quickest way to get there. They Satisfy!

Three Women Escape Net of 'Mail Romeo'

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Harry F. Powers, [illegible] O. Pierson, [illegible] had two more women [illegible] was luring [illegible] "love [illegible] ters and [illegible] among his [illegible]

Miss [illegible] Mc[illegible] had [illegible] last [illegible] August [illegible] day in the [illegible] Virginia Bl[illegible] custody [illegible]

DECLARES TRYST JOKE

Despite [illegible] ters, Miss Bell, 40, a [illegible] nurse and [illegible] Daughters of the [illegible] sisted she had [illegible] Powers more [illegible] thing else.

Mrs. Bessie G. [illegible], Olean, N. Y., where [illegible] was postponed, [illegible] herself as [illegible] pending [illegible] missive [illegible] "Connie Dear."

Mrs. [illegible] was living [illegible] meeting [illegible] sweetie, [illegible] and wrote:

"I will live for you and you only."

Mrs. [illegible] for, was [illegible] yesterday [illegible] She revealed [illegible] Powers were [illegible] September [illegible] her trousseau.

MYSTIC CODE BARED

An almost meaningless [illegible] of figures and letters of the [illegible] bet in Powers' home [illegible] ered most of the evening [illegible] taining letters sent [illegible] Blanche lover and killer, by Miss Bell. The mysterious [illegible] code method devised by Powers for classifying his prospects [illegible] for the victims. One of Miss Bell's letters, containing [illegible] such inscription:

1 to 8 $ [illegible] to $1 60 [illegible] up to [illegible]

The letter [illegible] cellation [illegible] pencil and [illegible] "Over [illegible] appeared on the [illegible]

KEY DISCOVERED

The key to the code, ascertained in a mass of [illegible] and writings found among the effects of the slain [illegible] combination of the [illegible] tures referring [illegible] his collection [illegible] love, money, [illegible]

For instance, [illegible] mean a letter, [illegible] of love-making [illegible] Powers system. As the affair advances to a more friendly basis the letter writing is more ardent and more personal, according to the whim of the writer.

NO 'DRUNKEN FOOL'

A paragraph taken from a letter written by the prisoner to Mrs. Simpson, unmailed at the time of his arrest, follows:

"Darling, I'll say right here that as a man with the brains and ability to attain the fortune a man can, I'll never make a drunken fool of myself, standing for a lot of wise cracks from a fat, flabby-faced night club hostess, who stands by like a Simon Legree in skirts, lip-lashing her skinny cabaret girls to strut their stuff like so many bloodhounds amid the cracked ice."

FATAL LOVE STRESSED

Another favorite passage [illegible] cated by the code was headed:

"Love that kills."

A letter from Miss Bell [illegible] pressed her delight over the proposed visit of the love racketeer last Thursday. She declared herself thrilled over the prospect of a car ride with Powers and expressed a hope that August 27 would always be a red-letter day for us.

The letter, dated August 21, said:

"My Dearest Connie:

"Your dearest letter ever came yesterday and did it make me happy. Maybe I can show you just how happy it made me when you get here, but I just cannot put it on paper. And was I thrilled just too much to write a long letter, but when you get here, oh my!

ONLY A WORKING GIRL

"Now I want to tell you, dearie, before you come, not to expect to find me living in a mansion, for as I told you from the beginning I am only a working girl and have always lived within my means and I can truthfully say that I owe not any man. I am a good girl and that should count more than riches. Oh, dearie, I'll be ready for the car ride.

"Remember, I shall be delighted to see you, so let nothing stand in your way. And I hope that August 27 will always be a red letter day for us. So let me hear, dear, and until then, as always,

ARREST BALKS MEETING

Powers' arrest [illegible] prevented the meeting with Miss Bell.

A previous letter from Miss Bell read:

My Dear Connie:

"I am running sorta late in answering your nice letter, but I've been mighty busy. And I am sure you will forgive me this time. I didn't get home this eve till 6:30. I had some ironing to do, then I took a bath and now have just finished reading the evening paper, and it is 9:30 and I am not going to write such a long letter, for I am sleepy and tired."

GETS MONEY PLEA

"Now as to why I wanted my description. When I first joined I received letters from young men much younger than myself. Well there were enough to start a kindergarten. And I wondered why so many real young men wrote. So I got a member to send me my description, but they just cut it out.

"I thought they had put it in to suit theirselves, for I never mentioned money or anything when I filled out the blank, but it read pretty nice, so I didn't think anything more about it until I received a letter from a man asking me for $1,000 or $3,000. And you should have seen the letter I wrote him. I told him that in the first place I didn't have any money. I have played fair from the start and told it straight. I have written to say I was a working girl and I rent. So I don't know why they would think that I had money.

"I also wrote this man that I wasn't out trying to buy a husband and if he wanted a woman with money he had better get himself a widow, for they usually had more than single girls did.

"He wrote back and said I was listed as a wealthy woman. So the [illegible] on I asked you for the list was I thought possibly it said wealthy women at the top of the list, but I failed to see it. I thank you most sweetly for sending it to me.

"And now, dear, as to those lists. I don't bother with them any more. I don't write to any of them anyway. I have come to the conclusion that most of them are money and home seekers and as I have neither to offer, I have quit bothering with it.

"And now that we have found each other we should worry.

URGES HASTE IN MEETING

"I do think it is a nice way to make friends if they were all sincere. It is the first time I ever did such a thing and I am sure it will be the last. While Margie and her friend are here I will be thinking about our wonderful meeting. And if you wanted to see me as bad as I want to see you I am sure it would be before July.

"Why prolong it? Let's get it over with, then we will know whether we like each other or not. Now I am not hurrying things, Dearie, or at least I don't mean it that way. Now you try real hard and see if you can't come down Decoration Day. You know it comes on Saturday and you certainly won't work that day. Then you would have Sunday and it isn't so far from Clarksburg to Hagerstown.

"Now say alright, sweetheart.

"You know I want to see my Connie Boy.

"Virginia."

WAITS FOR CONNIE

Miss Sharp's letter, dated August 24, from Olean, N. Y., said:

"Connie Dear, I am so happy—all your letters are here—next Fridays—just think of it. I can hardly realize it. I don't know of any 'instructions' that I need to give you. I will be here waiting for you. We are both just fine. Although I show the nerve wracking strain that I have been through. I know that I'll soon recover—I am feeling all right.

"I feel quite normal now—Mary's girl friend returned with us from Roch—so Mary is quite contented. Now that you will be here next Sunday I'll get busy here at home.

"It seems too good to be true that you will be here in a few days. Use your own judgment about coming to me, mine is about worn out. What ever you do will be O. K. with me. You will be surprised to see how calm I am. I am not grieving a bit. I am so happy. I'll soon be living in a new world—with you.

"Everything went along fine, three hours after my mother died I had secured $500 for our trip to Ohio and everybody here and in Columbus were just wonderful to us.

"Well darling, I am very happy this Monday morning.

"Last Monday I found your letter from Chicago. Today yours telling me you will soon be here.

AWAITS TELEGRAM

"This old place looks like a wilderness—grass knee high in spots but who should I worry—you dear you—is all that counts now and we will soon be together. Wire me when you leave telling me you will reach Olean. You won't have any trouble finding me in this little city—and Mary and I are the only ones here honored by the name of Sterrs. I'll be watching for your telegram about Thursday.

"Well, this is quite a long letter, but you know one of my faults is letter writing. I am afraid I'll get out of the habit after you arrive. Be patient with me, this is my last letter to you—I am so happy. I'll go to the postoffice and mail this now—[illegible] p. m.

"Kisses love—next Friday.

"BESSIE."

DETROIT WOMAN WRITES

A letter from Miss Simpson, dated August 24, from Detroit, [illegible]

Dear Connie:

"Your letter of the nineteenth came this a. m. Well, I might say about one hour ago. Words cannot express how happy I am to have it to learn that you are back again, as I know the time is not far distant when we will see each other and be able to judge. Honey, I want to know I do love you, for I know by your letters you are a real man and a gentleman.

"I love you for your frankness and the mind of such beautiful thoughts. This all denotes strength of character and I hope we will love each other. Nothing else matters to me. I shall live for you and only through life as your dear mother and dad did, and we will see all these things . . . trees, lambs, chickens, flowers, and all else will share together."

"Honey, don't you just love to watch nature? I do. I can remember when a little girl I watched the little ants and did feed them as they worked so hard to put in a winter supply.

"How happy I will be to have you point out to me the different places you dreamed of as a boy and sweet memories will be woven around my heart when all of this is done.

"I would want to make home a place of perfect peace and happiness."

Powers' Address Book Recalls Landru Case

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—A striking similarity between the murders of Henri Landru, the famed "French Bluebeard," and those to which Harry F. Powers has confessed was seen today in the discovery of a small address book in the ashes of a bonfire in the rear of Powers' garage at Quiet Dell.

The "French Bluebeard," who was convicted or suspected in connection with more than 200 murders, was convicted on an address book found in his possession.

Indiana State House Gets $68,000 Bath

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31 (INS).—For the first time in its years, the Indiana State House is receiving a bath. To remove the grime and dirt of the ages from the limestone structure, more than 60 men are employed at a cost of $68,000.

POWERS' TRIAL RUSHED

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—An early trial for Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, lone racketeer, was being considered today with the announcement that Judge John S. Sughrue of the Harrison County Circuit Court had cut short his vacation. A special jury may be called.

County Prosecutor Will F. Morris said he favored an early trial for the confessed slayer, but he would have to confer with Judge Sughrue about it before anything could be done definitely.

Other Bluebeard Cases Recalled

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP).—If Harry F. Powers is convicted of killing the five persons whose bodies were found buried at his Quiet Dell (W. Va.) garage home, he will rank with the most notorious criminals of the "Bluebeard" type in the history of the United States.

First among these fiendish slayers was Dr. H. H. Holmes, who constructed what came to be known as a murder castle in Englewood, Chicago suburb, in 1895. Before he was hanged in Philadelphia in 1896 he admitted having slain 27 men, women and children.

Holmes' castle, an ordinary looking structure from the outside, was a three-story affair housing a drug store on the first floor. A soundproof room occupied the second floor, and a trap door led to the cellar. In the upper story police found a great acid tank, a poisoned gas manufacturing outfit and a laboratory with operating table, dissecting instruments and saws.

Women it subsequently developed were lured there by enticing advertisements for housekeepers and were seen no more.

In 1905 another fiendish slayer was revealed in Johann Hoch, who operated in the vicinity of Chicago and ended his career on the gallows here. It was brought out at his trial that the man had married 42 women in 24 years, most of them bigamously, and made away with them. His forte was to inoculate the victims with disease germs.

The other figure was Belle Gunness, discovery of whose murder farm near Laporte, Ind., in 1908 shocked the nation.

The fate of this woman, who is believed to have killed more than a score of men lured to the place through matrimonial advertisements, remains a mystery.

With Variable Multi-Mu and Pentode Tubes
An Exclusive Rosenbaum Anniversary Sale Feature

$59.50 Complete
Regularly $119

The Rosenbaum Co. scoured the country over for a radio value extraordinary enough for the Anniversary Sale. We found what we were looking for, after a long search, at the Silver-Marshall laboratories in Chicago. It was an 8-tube, full-size superheterodyne---the LATEST DESIGN by the pioneer maker of superhets.

We spent days comparing it to other present-day sets and found it to be an outstanding value at that price. But just another good value was not what we had in mind. Silver-Marshall cut their profits, we almost eliminated ours, and we are offering these 1932 receivers at exactly one-half their true value. (The Silver-Marshall $119 price tags are still on them). Remember, it's a full-size chassis, full-size cabinet (42 inches high), with a 10½-inch dynamic speaker.

$6 Down delivers this Silver-Marshall Radio to your home immediately. Balance on our Convenient Easy Payment Budget Plan.

NBC IN DEAL :-: Takes Over Management Of WMAQ, Chicago :-: PHIL DEWEY, BING CROSBY

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

When NBC officials returned from Chicago with their market basket today they reported one of their most successful shopping tours in weeks, the purchase of WMAQ, effective November 1 . . . maybe it was pride alone that moved NBC to invegle from Columbia dominance the enemy station whose 8x10 blue room studio has for two years been the point of origin for NBC's most popular feature, Amos 'n' Andy. . . . We have a suspicion that KDKA will be added to NBC's management before January 1. . . . we've seen a lot of important New York brief cases here lately . . . and a retrenchment program has been on for some time.

Phil Dewey, baritone, takes Elliott Shaw's place in the Revelers Quartet on WCAE at 9:30 tonight . . . Phil has chosen one of his best numbers, Romberg's "Desert Song," as a solo . . . Bing Crosby, who really found "A Million Dollar Baby" when he nicked CBS for $78,000 a year, sings the hit on WJAS at 11 in addition to "Just One More Chance" and "I'm Through With Love."

Question a Day:

Can you tell me what station is testing from Pate, on, N. J. these mornings? I have had them twice now, but they faded and all I caught was the name of the town —J. J. C., Library, Pa.

Answer—The new CBS 50 kilowatt station is testing on the air every morning from 2 until 6 o'clock, using the WABC wavelength of 860 kilocycles.

Studio Lights

Dave Olson, whose impersonations we rank on a par with those of Phillips Lord or George Frame Browne, has been called to New York for a special audition at NBC . . . He is to be Browne's studio guest tonight at 9:30 during the "Real Folks" broadcast . . .

They wasted no time in New York control rooms Saturday night when Vincent Lopez started to play a restricted number. . . switches were pulled in a hurry . . .

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—It took an anti-gangster mass meeting in Madison Square Garden to evoke the frankest speaking yet heard on the radio. When men such as Smedley P. Butler, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Senator Wagner, Bainbridge Colby, Edward Nealy and Police Commissioner Mulrooney get together there is apt to be fireworks.

The fireworks scorched the ether the other night. It marked the first time since the last presidential campaign that a spade was called a spade on the air. It is just such frank talking to which radio should ever be giving a refuge. Instead, radio too often finds a haven only for those who are masters in pulling their punches.

Undoubtedly it was the universal disfavor of the prohibition reign that was responsible for the plain speaking. The speakers who were the frankest were those who placed their fingers upon the prohibition laws as the cause of the racketeer's rise in the republic. Butler, Coughlin and Mulrooney didn't mince words. The result? The advancement of the microphone to a foremost place as an instrument of righteous indignation.

And that's what the microphone ought to be when occasion demands. The public reaction to the speeches at the mass meeting ought to gladden the hearts of the broadcasters, ought to give them more courage to shoo the nice Nellies out of their studios and make room for people who can talk vigorously upon the great controversial subjects of the day.

There has been too long a hush-hush on the radio about prohibition. Rarely is it discussed either pro or con. And when it is aired it is usually given to speakers who have carefully removed the stings, who treat it academically or with long-winded legal phraseology.

Most of us are familiar with Gen. Butler's voice and delivery. He can be more angry on the microphone than any speaker this listener has heard with the possible exception of Senator Carter Glass. His anger often disturbs the emirs of the ether, for he dips into the bag of mild profanity. But what he says has a bite to it. After heavy dishes of namby-pamby pudding it is especially welcome.

Coughlin's radio style is also familiar to the eardrums. The most outspoken orator of the air is Coughlin, who says what he believes without fear or favor. The other night he was more impassioned than ever as he paid his respects to the era of lawlessness.

250,000 PERISH IN NEW FLOOD

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31. (AP.)—While authorities sought today to survey the flood situation in northern Kiangsi province another area placed its dead at 250,000 and its destitute homeless at 500,000.

The Wuhan district, comprising the cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang in Central China was able for the first time to tally its losses. Officials announced 163,000 houses were destroyed. In three cities, 782,000 persons were homeless.

President Chiang Kai-shek who reached Hankow Friday, ordered authorities to lift embargoes on rice to the affected region. The Yangtse is subsiding at a rate of several inches daily.

General Chu Chang-Lun, National Flood Commission field director, and Col. G. G. Stobe, chief engineer of the Yangtse Conservancy Commission, who returned to Shanghai after an airplane survey, told the Associated Press they saw nothing to indicate a disaster of the magnitude first reported.

DOCTOR KILLED AFTER TORTURE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—With his hands lashed behind his back with a handkerchief, Dr. William R. Hurst, 30, was found murdered in his apartment today.

He had been tortured before he died. On his cheek were bruises.

The doctor was clad only in his pajamas when his body was found slumped on a settee in the living room. The apartment had been ransacked.

It was the blaring of the radio, evidently turned on by the killer in order that the doctor's screams might not be overheard, that led today to the discovery of the body. Neighbors complained to the superintendent, who entered the apartment and discovered the body.

Women's Party Has Four Objectives

When women obtained the vote 11 years ago, they demonstrated immediate and particular interest first in obtaining a greater share of authority over their children, second in equalization of property and inheritance rights, third, in securing industrial equality, and fourth in having their citizenship guaranteed by an equal nationality law, according to Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, national chairman of the National Woman's Party. Mrs. Wiley made the above declaration in a statement issued August 26, commemorating the eleventh anniversary of suffrage.

The Woman's Party was organized, Mrs. Wiley explains, to remove discriminations against women in the law. It sponsors an amendment to the United States constitution providing that men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and all territory subject to its jurisdiction.

In addition, in the 11 years since suffrage, the Woman's Party has sponsored many specific equal rights measures in Congress and in State Legislatures. Equal rights measures which the Woman's Party has drawn up or has supported have been secured in 25 states and territories.

THE REDINGOTE HAS BEEN RETAINED BY DESIGNERS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Fashion is still riding the redingote or variations of this style. This spring saw the complete revival of the redingote, and so popular did it prove that both the designers and their clients are loath to abandon it. Consequently it has been retained and has given considerable impetus to the revival of the afternoon or walking ensemble. A smart black and white print with a black coat that is open in best redingote fashion and is trimmed with the collar or revers of the frock is always a safe entry in the fashion event for town costumes for summer days. For usually this type of coat is of georgette, romain, matocain or some other semi-sheer material and is not only pleasantly cool but acts as a protector to the light colored frock worn with it. An ensemble of this type should be in the summer wardrobe of every woman who expects to pass some of her time in town or who has to come up to town occasionally. For it looks good in the hot city and can be worn en route perfectly. And then one is always dressed for that possible luncheon date.

TODAY'S SKETCH depicts the multiple charms of a most delightful ensemble from the house of Redfern. The dress is of black and white printed crepe matocain and there is a bertha and a tabot. These, together with the short sleeves and the skirt are all bordered with a scalloped edging in plain black crepe. The coat is a long fitted model of thin black wool matocain with a trimming of encrusted cutting bands of the material. The coat is open all the way down the front, being caught together only at one point at the waistline. As will be seen the collar and tabot of the frock aptly lend their assistance to add to the charm and effectiveness of the coat. Redfern has been specializing in ensembles of this type lately and have found them very successful.

Color Contrast for Fall

Pattern 2202

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

The liking for two tones in one frock is attractively illustrated by a contrasting yoke and sleeves on an unusually smart model. The diagonal bodice seamings are repeated in the skirt godets which are joined into the side seams, lending a long unbroken line to the front of the skirt. Tiny buttons are very new for trimming. Satin, rather than wool and silk may be combined here. Lovely themes are black and white, black and green, brown and yellow, red and flesh.

Pattern 2202 is obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch material for the yards contrasting. Yardage for every size and simple exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Humble Housewives' Pluck and Courage Commended by Fay King

By FAY KING

All credit to Anne Lindbergh who flew to Japan with her famous husband.

But her pluck and courage are not greater than that of countless other wives who are standing faithfully by their husbands in the hard struggle of humbler lives.

Anne need never worry over her child's future, happen what may. He was born to wealth and fame.

There is no glory and world applause to cheer on wives and mothers whose hearts are heavy with the uncertainties of the future, lacking not the will but the means to secure the least of all that they would for their dear ones.

Only God and these brave women can ever know the great pluck and courage it takes just to be patient.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Sun Bath Is a Good Health Tonic

When driving through Central Park I am always thrilled by the beautiful trees and green lawns located within the very heart of the greatest city in the world. I never get over the surprise that there are so many people in the park. The children are attracted there by the beauty and fragrance of the trees and flowers.

Dr. Copeland

In every park there are many men with their coats and hats off, sunning themselves on the park benches. I approve of this with all my heart.

A sun bath is one of the best health tonics at our disposal. I advise all my readers to take advantage of the beneficial rays of the sun at every time of the year.

Even though you may be living in the city and cannot afford to go to the country, you can get sunlight. If you do not live near a park, a street car or other conveyance will quickly take you to one of the many city parks.

It is not uncommon to see men, women and children on the roofs of buildings. Such an exposure to the sun is often more advantageous than the park, in view of its privacy. It is a good thing to remove as much clothing as possible and take these sun baths as often as you can.

In spite of the passing criticisms, I believe a good coat of tan now will insure health and pleasure for the coming months. Sun baths for children are particularly important.

It has been definitely shown that a disease such as rickets, which occurs in children can be prevented by adequate sunlight. The disease can be cured when a child with rickets is exposed to sunlight. Any child who has been exposed to the sun usually thrives better than one who has not had this privilege.

The first time that you take a sun bath, expose yourself for a very brief time. Gradually increase the exposure until your skin becomes accustomed to the light. Remember that in small doses, the sun refreshes and benefits the body. In large doses it burns and does damage.

Answers to Health Queries

MARGARET W. Q. What causes a pain across the lower part of my back?

A. This may be due to lumbago. Application of heat and electricity are helpful in some instances.

M. L. F. Q. Is it possible to have the nose X-rayed at an eye and ear infirmary without a doctor's advice? I have a catarrhal disturbance with an offensive odor and ordinary treatment is of no benefit in my case. I believe the bone is decayed.

A. Yes. In the meantime keep the nasal passage clear.

MRS. R. I. Q. My baby has a hard time cutting teeth, what do you advise?

A. Your doctor will prescribe medication to soften the gums or will incise the gums and allow the teeth to erupt.

A. N. M. Q. Have you a real treatment for lumbago and sciatica?

A. Try to locate the underlying cause of the trouble before attempting treatment. Application of heat should give relief meanwhile.

A Sign on the Door

When the youngster is convalescing from a contagious disease, an interesting form of amusement is to place him at the window with a pencil and paper and get him to write the names of the objects he sees, dividing them into groups, such as colors one day, flowers and trees the next day, parts of houses the following. He will get a little taste of outside interest in this way and not be quite so lonesome for the other kiddies.

Household Hints

If ham has been stored away for a long time it is apt to become hard and sugary. Place it in the oven until the sugar melts and it will be again soft and palatable.

Freshly cut peaches will not lose their light color if wrapped in wax paper and then placed in the refrigerator until ready for use. This will enable the housewife to prepare them further in advance if she so desires.

The early riser has all her tedious tasks done and can relax and find the cool spots while her more tardy neighbor perspires copiously.

Candles are so much more apt to drip in summer and yet they look so very pretty during the warm months that a little trouble to protect them is worth while. Varnish the candles with a white shellac; it will give them a hardiness that will prevent dripping and drooping over.

For 25 cents you can telephone to friends, relatives or customers as far as thirty miles away. For example, from Downtown Pittsburgh to Butler, Greensburg or Beaver Falls. And calls to more distant points are also inexpensive.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

THIS IS THE STORY of a little girl. A very little girl who dances. She has a mother, too. And a father. And a sister. But she doesn't care about them, really. If they'd only go away and let her dance. And dance. And dance.

I stumbled on this little episode at a ball that was recently held in one of New York's leading hotels. Not a good place for stories, surely. Fat men and heavier women. Everybody so, so bored. I, too, was bored. Until I discovered the very little girl. The very little girl who danced.

It was shortly after midnight. I stood in the rear of the ballroom, the portion of the hall that is usually reserved for the performers who are scheduled to appear. Inside a band played loudly.

All very uninteresting, I thought. And I walked up and down the corridor for no reason at all. Back and forth. Back and forth. And suddenly a harsh voice seemed to be coming in my direction.

"Please, mister," said the voice, "have you seen my daughter around here? She didn't show home last night and we're all sorta worried. Please, mister."

I turned. Two people. Mother and daughter, unquestionably. Both badly dressed. Daughter with a faded shawl and a pair of square shoes. Mother with a silly bonnet and a flower hanging on it, and a sweater that was too small for her. It was the mother who had spoken to me.

A sad looking couple. But then there are so many of those. I assured mother that I knew nothing about her daughter and tried to pass on. But she placed a large hand on my arm.

"Please, mister," she said, "my daughter's a dancer. One of the champeens, she is. Won a contest, she did. But she didn't show home last night. And the old man's sick. I hold she wuz over here, so me and my other daughter, this one's married, came over lookin' for her. Can't you help us, mister?"

Funny the way that mother spoke. Telling me her whole history that way. Nobody asked her for it—I least of all. But she was in distress. No doubt of that. So I took her name and her missing daughter's name. And two or three men were soon looking around for the girl in question.

It didn't take them long to find her. I'm going to call her Gracie, although that's not her name.

Gracie was small. Very small. And as thin as an erring husband's excuses. Too much powder. Too much rouge. Two piercing eyes. A turned-up nose. Uneven teeth. A cheap, coarse dress. Costly silk stockings. Worn pumps. Very young, Gracie.

The mother leaped forward.

"Where wuz you last night?" she demanded.

"I wuz in Newark," she responded, "in Newark on a dance contest. An' I couldn't find no telephone to letcha know. It got so late I stayed there all night wit' a goil friend. That's all there wuz. That's all."

The mother grew excited.

"You're no good!" she shouted. "you know your father's lyin' in bed and coughin' his lungs out. And then you don't come home and we're worried stiff aboutcha. You're no good. And if you wuz in a dance contest, where's the money you got fer it?"

"Aw," was Gracie's reply. "I come in third an' I only get five bucks fer the work. You just quit hollerin' and come on over here. I'll give you some. Only these people . . . hear me . . . business . . . "

Their voices drifted off.

Two minutes later I took Gracie aside. Her mother was still talking to the crowd. Her sister was quiet. She hadn't said a word.

"O, I know lotsa you paper guys," said Gracie to me. "I met 'em last week when I was dancin' in a contest. I had my pitcher took too. Sure. I'm a champeen, you know. Sure. Danced almost seven hours without stoppin'. Naw, I didn't get any money fer it. I wuz gypped. But I had lots o' fun. Sure.

Why do I dance fer nothin'? 'Cause I like it. I like to hear the people yell. There's only two things I care fer. Dancin' and the movies. I saw three movies today. Sure. If my mother knew, she'd kill me.

"What? O, sure, I'm goin' home tonight. But I won't be goin' home much more. All I'm waitin' fer is just one chance and I'll breeze along fast.

"What? Would I leave my mother and father? Don't make me laugh. The old man's dyin' with corn and all she wants is the coin. I worked in a factory fer a year and brought home the dough every week. An' whadid I get?

"This love stuff is the bunk. I'm gonna keep on dancin'. I wuzn't invited here tonight, but I'm gonna dance just the same. I don't care if I don't get nothin' fer it. I just love to hear the people yell . . . . . "

The crowd had grown much larger. Some one had spread the word. A man commenced to clap. One. Two. That unholy rhythm. Another. One. Two. They're all doing it now. And Gracie's in the center. Look at those legs twinkle. Faster. One. Two. One. Two.

The mother was about to leave now. Gracie's sister is going, too. She hasn't said a word yet. Gracie is dancing away. The crowd is following her. And the mother stops as she passes me.

"Thanks very much, mister," she says, "It was nice o' you to find her for me. She only gives me two bucks, but that's better than nothin'. She ain't a good girl an' I don't know where she gets her notions from. She's just bad and that's all."

That small crowd was actually cheering now. Gracie's legs were tireless. She couldn't stop. Outside, the band was playing that mad, mad music. And her mother stepped on a chair and strained her eyes.

"Lookit Gracie go," she cried. "Just lookit her! She's wonderful. She's doin' stunts. No wonder she won a contest. She's a champeen, she is. And she's my daughter. My Gracie." . . . .

LUTHERANS ACT TO AID RELIEF

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The National Lutheran Council issued a call to Lutheran congregations, pastors, colleges and school and mission agencies to use their influence to keep young people in school this winter. The action is a measure of co-operation with President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief.

The various bodies concerned include 2,500,000 Lutherans in the United States who control 74 seminaries, colleges and academies. The 7,500 pastors to whom the call was directed were asked to bring the matter to the attention of their congregations on September 13.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph H. Long, executive director of the council, said the reasons for the action were to prepare the young people for future positions, prevent idleness, which generally results in mischief and crime, and give whatever employment there is to be had to heads of families and supporters of dependents."

2,600 ATTEND SESSION, OHIO MAN SPEAKS

Noted Educators on Program For Addresses at Annual School Convention Here

Self expression, if an aid in character building, must be tempered with consideration for the rights of others, Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of Ohio University, told 2,600 teachers attending the opening session of the Allegheny County Teachers Institute in Memorial Hall today. He said:

"Everyone has an inherent right of self-expression, but he must not emphasize himself to the point where he is an obstacle in the way of others, also seeking self-expression."

Other speakers at this afternoon's session were Dr. William H Burton University of Chicago on "This New Freedom in Education," and Dr. Hilton I. Jones, research consultant Wilmette, Ill., on "A Study in Self-Management."

Superintendent of County Schools C. E. Dickey presided. This morning was given over to registration for the eighty-first annual session of the institute which concludes Friday.

A few minutes after the girl sank she was brought up unconscious by bathers. Dr. W. T. Holland, of Springdale, and lifesaving experts worked for more than four hours to resuscitate the victim, but their efforts proved futile.

Miss Romanowski had been bathing with Betty Bates, 19, of 6013 Butler street, Stanley Kimi, 27, of 3714 Penn avenue, and Francis A. Trugh, 22, of 3829 Mintwood street, according to the Coroner's report.

3 THEATERS SIGN WAGE PACT

Pittsburgh's larger movie theaters, units of nationwide organizations, have signed a two-year wage scale with the motion picture operators.

R. C. Freeman, business agent of Local 171, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators of the United States and Canada, made this announcement today.

Fourteen independent theaters in Pittsburgh and outlying districts have refused to sign, he said, and have demanded a one-man arrangement, effective tomorrow, to which the operators' union has refused to accede, according to Freeman, he said.

"Six of the 14 have already paid off union men and notified them not to return. Their action amounts to a lockout."

The agreement, signed with the larger houses, which will run to September 1, 1933, Freeman stated, provides for a sliding scale ranging from $40 to $85 weekly and will mean a slight increase. About 115 men are affected, he said. Those signing according to Freeman, were Loews, Warner's, Paramount and R. K. O.

One Peck Equals One Pint; That Makes 30 Days

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Our undercover man in the blanket factory gives us the new international weights and measures.

Five bushels of wheat equal one bushel of coffee.

A peck of corn makes one pint. One pint is equivalent to 30 days.

One-third of a bale of cotton is a bonfire for the Farm Board. Two-thirds equal Sherman's march to the Sea.

Ten snowballs make one apple.

Sixty prominent citizens mean a commission which means nothing. The sum of two sides of the triangle is equal to the base. But nobody ever gets on base.

The straight line of a blue pencil is the shortest distance across an unpopular amendment.

A bird-in-the-hand used to mean a turkey for dinner. Now it's a sparrow.

Like the careful little boy who got all his answers wrong, we must still award the administration five points for neatness.

Ferdinand Strothman, 20, of 231 Waldorf street, North Side, who was the state winner of the nation-wide model stage coach contest of the Fisher Body Guild, has just returned from a four days' visit to Detroit, where the national prizes were awarded.

Two weeks ago young Strothman received the first prize of $50 in gold and the trip to Detroit as well as the Sun-Telegraph trophy for the best model stage coach within the state.

Although failing to win one of the $5,000 scholarships, Strothman's model ranks among those which the Fisher Body people consider purchasing for exhibition purposes. The model required eight months to construct and is valued at several thousand dollars.

GUNS RULE FIRE ZONE IN IDAHO

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 31 (AP)—Armed troops have inaugurated martial law in four Idaho counties seeking to quell an outbreak of incendiarism in forest areas which Gov. C. Ben Ross blames on jobless men aspiring to be fire fighters.

Martial law in the area was declared by Gov. Ross when National Guard and forest officials expressed fear that fire fighters being rapidly released as existing blazes were controlled, would light other forests to give themselves employment.

About 60 men were discharged from crews in the Placerville-Grimes Pass area as foresters became confident the wide fire line would hold. The entire line was completed save for a short section of backfiring near Grimes Creek. Altogether 45 miles of line was pounding the Placerville fire.

A phonograph, he said, stood on the ground in front of the building.

Haller Lauds Cochrane. * DiMeolo Going East.
Pirates Still Slipping. Schaaf Looks Winner.
Golf Tourney Wide Open. Costliest Motor Boat.

OLD SCOUT RATES MICKEY GREATEST

IN THE OPINION [illegible] baseball man [illegible] most important cog [illegible] Mack's three-time champion [illegible] Catcher Mickey Cochrane [illegible] the game and [illegible] recent [illegible] the cheers of an injury-s[illegible] [illegible] when a batted ball struck him on [illegible] Washington [illegible] the [illegible] Connie Mack's catcher [illegible] Cochrane [illegible] Manager George Lal[illegible] Simmons and Jimmy Foxx [illegible] Joseph Mackey triumphs, Haller [illegible] Cochrane is secret of the Am[illegible] success is Cochrane and nobody [illegible]

Haller never waxed so enthusiastic [illegible] Cochrane. I prefaced my [illegible] by asking about Cochrane after watching the latter in several games at various stages of the present season. He goes so far as to pronounce Mickey not only the most important member of the Philadelphia club, but the greatest ball player he ever saw, and so vastly superior to any other present-day star as to render comparisons ridiculous. He puts Cochrane in a class of his own.

Mickey Cochrane

NO MAN IN baseball [illegible] better than Haller to pass [illegible] and who [illegible] Although playing career ended [illegible] Barney Dreyfuss [illegible] a quarter of century and has seen the Phillies and [illegible] in a similar capacity. Thus Hank might be termed a spectator [illegible] as he was a participant when he was making baseball history.

"They may talk all they please about other ball players of the present day, but I'll take Cochrane for mine," said Haller. "And at that I'm not stepping at the present day in making Cochrane my first choice. He's the greatest ball player I ever saw at any time during my connection with the game. And every time I see him in action he looks better. A perfect catcher if ever there was one, and so far ahead of the rest that they're not to be mentioned in the same breath with him. I think the success of Mack's pitchers, and of the team itself is due more to Cochrane than to any other single factor. Without Mickey, the As would not be the As at all."

THE DOUBLE DEFEAT of yesterday in St. Louis, in which the Pirates scored only one run in two games and were the victims of 23 strikeouts, required Pittsburgh's fifth-place chances to another full game as Boston split a dual bill with the Reds. And the margin separating the Bucs from the Braves is entered in the "lost" column, rendering it all the more difficult to make up.

Glenn Spencer's fall in the second game yesterday kept in evidence the jinx that has prevented him from winning twice in succession since his first two appearances of the season. In his last 13 games he lost and won alternately. Yet he is pitching the best ball on the club and it can't be said that he doesn't own a much better record than nine won and 10 lost. In the nine complete games he has pitched this season he has allowed a total of only 21 runs.

WHEN BOBBY JONES was a starter for the national amateur golf championship, nobody else had a chance. With Jones out of it, everybody else has a chance. That's why the annual tournament which opened today on the Beverly course in Chicago for the title which the Georgian won five times in the last seven years is the most open in many seasons. The absence of George Von Elm and Leo Sweetser adds to the uncertainty. You could pick out 18 or more players from the field of 150 and perhaps not name the winner. Johnston, Voigt, Perkins, Watling, Seaver, Goodman, Ouimet, Homans, Kunes, Lehman, Daly, Dunlap, McCarthy, Evans, Tolles, Little and Coleman are only some of those who must be conceded a chance.

Luby DiMeolo

LUBY DiMEOLO [illegible] hereby as the [illegible] of the 1929 Pitt football team [illegible] regular season [illegible] York this week to take [illegible] coast at N. Y. U.

DiMeolo, whose election to the 1929 Panther captaincy was quite a surprise but which turned out a happy selection, will be starting his second season with the Violet. He was always one of Chick Meehan's favorites and Chick made no secret of the fact that he considered him the best guard in the nation in 1929.

PITTSBURGH FANS HAD a chance to watch the New York line in action against Carnegie Tech last fall, and saw the DiMeolo coached giants and take much to admire. DiMeo believes N. Y. U. [illegible] to the top of the [illegible] this season. Ed Jerry Nemecek is the only 1930 [illegible] has been lost.

Last week's [illegible] to be [illegible] up to major [illegible] Abbott, Allington [illegible] backfield [illegible] Namata [illegible]

ERNIE SCHAAF, who knocked out his last seven opponents, may not succeed in winning in that fashion when he meets Victorin Campolo in their delayed 12-round bout in Brooklyn tonight, but he does look good enough to win on points with the bout going the limit. This despite the fact that Campolo towers 6 feet 6½ inches in height and will have an advantage of 30 pounds. Campolo, though dull witted, can fight when he tries, but he has never developed a left hand and is not nearly as clever a boxer as Schaaf.

ERNIE IS A PRETTY good boxer and [illegible] He can [illegible] and give them a punishing hand and [illegible] relatively [illegible] Tendler, Loughran beat him, and in a [illegible] several [illegible] Pat Dupree. On the same [illegible] Steve Hamas, former Penn State [illegible] advance [illegible] defeating Max Delaney.

Another heavyweight bout that was on the card for tonight bringing together Tommy Loughran and Jack Gross for 10 rounds in Philadelphia has been postponed until one week from tomorrow night on account of an injury to one of Loughran's eyes.

THAT MOTOR BOAT [illegible] is far from being a poker's game was never [illegible] [illegible] which holds the world record of 110.225 [illegible] and which Gar Wood [illegible] Homeworth Trophy [illegible] [illegible] Detroit [illegible] Notorious.

According to Bill Stern, the American [illegible] that the construction of [illegible] Engine II has run [illegible] a year and [illegible] operating since [illegible] at right [illegible] $250,000.

Kaye Don

THE FIGURES INCLUDE the first cost of construction, motors and all, the cost of raising and reconditioning the boat after it sank in the accident in which Sir Henry Segrave lost his life on Lake Windermere last June, the expense of sending the craft to the Argentine and to Italy for its world record performances that year, and also the cost of the present trip to the country for the Harmsworth Trophy event. The owner, Lord Wakefield of Hythe, England, rates Miss England II the fastest motor boat in the world, but says he already feels repaid by the world record achievements and will consider the entire investment a cheap one if he can realize his ambition to take the Harmsworth Trophy back to England.

WIND BOTHERS LINKS STARS AT CHICAGO

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—[illegible] New York and Chicago district champions [illegible] Beverly Country Club [illegible] 72 [illegible] par [illegible] set the pace in the first [illegible] Westland [illegible] golf [illegible] the first nine [illegible] par [illegible] [illegible] time for a 39 [illegible] perfect figure.

KOCSIS CARDS 81

The first big explosion had 18-year-old Charles Kocsis of Detroit as his victim. The youth who beat Francis Ouimet a year ago and trimmed Tommy Armour in open competition once this year finished with 47-40—87 and was virtually eliminated. He would have to shoot par golf for a chance to qualify tomorrow.

Bobby Jones arrived in the role of spectator to see his successor crowned in the middle of the day. He came from Dayton, O., and remarked on the advantages of seeing golf from the sidelines.

"I expect to write a few pieces for the papers," he admitted after visiting the tent provided for the experts.

Ruby Howard, 13-year-old Virginia schoolgirl, finished with a 43-38—76 that put him well up in the field. His card:

In ..... 3 6 3 5 4 3 6 3 5—38—76

PERKINS OFF GAME

T. Philip Perkins of New York, former British amateur title-holder, was far off his game and reached the turn in 43, seven over par. Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston of St. Paul, 1929 champion, reached the turn in 39 and Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, negotiated the outward nine in 38.

Maurice J. McCarthy, New York another of the young hopefuls, reached the turn in 40. Johnny Goodman, the Omaha star, was out in 38, two over par. Charles Seaver was out in 38, Frank Dolph in 38, Cyril Tolles in 39, Gene Homans in 40 and Roland MacKenzie in 41.

One half will pursue the path to Chautauqua Lake, down the Chadaquoin to the Conewango, to the Alleghenv, to the Ohio, and into the Mississippi—the other half to Chautauqua Creek, to Lake Erie, to Lake Ontario and out through the St. Lawrence. GUS GUERRERO RAN 93 MILES WITHOUT STOPPING—Gus Guerrero, born in Alviso, Cal., in 1859, of Mexican parents, held many championships in walking and running in the late 70's and 80's, and was a participant in many of these famous races all over the nation. At Easton, Pa., in 1887, he ran 93 miles without stopping. In the same year, on March 5, he ran 21 miles in two hours and 11 minutes; on April 15, 1888, he won the 72-hour-go-as-you-please race in Philadelphia in a 382-mile jaunt, and prior to that time (1879) he won the $1,500 diamond belt and an $8,000 purse in a six-day race in California, doing 548 miles.

TOMORROW—THE FOUR-MONTH-OLD BABY WHO WAS MADE A COLONEL.

RUEL TRADED FOR M'MANUS

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Harold (Muddy) Ruel, veteran catcher, today went to the Detroit Tigers in exchange for Marty McManus. Tiger officials, the Red Sox management announced.

Ruel left for Detroit today and McManus will join the Sox tomorrow. It was explained the trade was permitted at this late date because the Sox had secured waivers on Ruel and Detroit secured waivers on McManus.

Ruel caught for Washington in the days when the Senators figured in the world series and has been with the Sox only since the opening of the season. It was a return engagement for him, however, as he played with the Red Sox before going to Washington, coming here from the New York Yankees.

McManus also is a veteran having played on the St. Louis Browns before going to Detroit several seasons ago.

BUCCO HURLER TO MARRY

A baseball romance featuring Charles Asher Wood, promising young Pirate southpaw, reached the engagement state today when the curveball star admitted to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that he'd given his promise in marriage.

The bride-to-be is a beautiful young girl of Wichita, Kan. She is Miss Evelyn Louise Marlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Marlin. Her father is a prominent business man of the mid-Western city.

Charley and Miss Marlin have been deeply in love these many months. The romance dates back to the days after the gangling boy came out of the Dixie bushes to be the star pitcher of the Wichita champions. When Charley was striking out Western League batters by the dozen, it develops, he had a fine inspiration near the home grounds.

Wood asked Manager Ens for permission to go to Wichita for a visit, but Jewel had figured on using the youngster in yesterday's double-header, and of course the request was refused. Charles was not to be denied a visit with his intended bride, so he arranged to have her visit St. Louis friends. Not long afterward the betrothal was confirmed.

The engaged couple state that the date of the marriage is indefinite.

P. WANER HURT AS PIRATES DROP PAIR

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The first-string pitchers of the Pirate squad, together with Paul Waner, his cheekbone broken in two places, reached Pittsburgh this morning after the long ride from St. Louis where yesterday the Bucco nine made a miserable showing against the pennant-pounding Cardinals.

The National League champions won both ends of a double-header, 5 to 0 and 4 to 1, with 26,000 fans enjoying the home club's pranks. The main body of the team is spending the day in Buffalo where tonight it will meet the Bisons of the International League in a game to be staged under lights.

P. WANER INJURED

Brother Paul had the appearance of a battle-torn veteran as he made the trip back to Pittsburgh. The right-fielder was struck on the left cheek with a thrown ball in the first game of the afternoon. The star batter was stealing second in the ninth round when Jimmy Wilson's throw hit him flush in the face. Paul raced to third as the ball deflected to the outfield, but he almost collapsed at the three-quarter post. There it was seen his cheek was sunken and bruised by the force of the ball.

Paul was rushed to the Pirates' clubhouse [illegible] first aid treatment. A short time later he was taken to St. John's Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the same physician who treated him when he had serious trouble with one of his legs last spring.

Dr. Hyland had an X-ray picture made of the sore spot and the development of the plate disclosed two small bones fractured. Paul was able to leave the institution immediately.

Dr. Hyland is making a study of the results with a view of determining whether an operation will be necessary. This will be decided in the next day or two. Meantime, Paul will be treated in Pittsburgh, and he is likely to be missing from the lineup for a week, as there was a commensurate shock to his whole system.

23 BUCS FAN

The Pirates fought through for hours at Sportsman's Park in the presence of the holiday throng, but at the end of the long afternoon they had amassed the insignificant total of one tally.

To add to the woes of Pirates, they were used as the mannikins by Bill Hallahan as the Binghamton marvel established a new strike-out record for the season in the nightcap. Wild Bill fanned 13 of our swingers to surpass all other marks of the year.

TARTAN GRIDDERS OPEN TRAINING TODAY

WESTMINSTER, GENEVA SQUADS IN CAMP

By JESS CARVER

Carnegie Tech began the 1931 football show today with high courage and pep offsetting the prospects of a tough and rugged schedule and a lack of veteran material. The situation might be worse and again it might be a whale of a sight better.

M. Armentrout

Judge Wally Steffen deserted his Superior Court bench in Chicago and arrived here this morning to aid Coach Bobby Waddell in constructing an eleven that must battle teams of the caliber of Wash-Jeff, Purdue, Georgie Tech, Pitt, Notre Dame, Temple and New York University to say nothing of Buffalo and Western Reserve. The Judge and Bob were on hand for the first formal roll-call at the Tartan camp in the Tech Bowl this morning.

The Skibos wasted little time in getting down to real work today once the uniforms were passed out. For the first time in the school's football history a scrimmage was staged on inaugural day. The Tartans were sent through a brisk drill that lasted almost an hour.

FACE TOUGH TASK

Unlike last year, when the Skibo authorities, and the players as well, were frankly optimistic, yea even boastful, the Tartans this year are not given to boasting. Too many veterans have been taken, and too many gaps must be filled and positions strengthened before the Scotch will do any shouting.

The veterans on hand today were led by Capt. Murray Armentrout, the big halfback, Alex Ducanis, George Kavel, Deuger, Jones, Fletcher, Burzio and Sample. A dozen recruits from the 1930 freshmen eleven and 20 reserves from last year's varsity complete the squad.

Down at College Hill today Howdy Harpster, former Tech great, starts his Geneva College Covenanters off. Geneva boasts a squad strong both in point of numbers and heft. Its class will be determined later on, and not so very much later either, for the Genevians and Dukes pry open the tri-state season here at Forbes field the night of September 18.

TITANS START TODAY

Another tri-state school starts the ball rolling today, the Westminster Titans being slated to hold their initial drill at New Wilmington. Westminster sports one of the two new head coaches in the section, John Lawther having succeeded Dike Beede. West Virginia has the other new chief in Earle (Greasy) Neale.

The remainder of the institutions of learning of the sector, save the Dukes, will mark time until next week, when all will open camps. The Dukes have their first drill booked for Thursday, and will do their training on their Bluff field.

SHERN LEADER IN TOURNEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Shern Rose of the Castle Shannon Golf Club, who garnered second place in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph William Randolph Hearst Junior tournament at Schenley Park last June, this morning took the lead in the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association caddie championship for individual and team laurels at the Highland Country Club with a fine score of 76.

Ron Weckess of Beaver Valley Country Club was five strokes behind the leader with a 78. The next man was Stanley Trainer. George Matsock, of the Shannopin Country Club, having garnered an 85.

Roni found the going tough on two holes going out and was four over par, 40, to 36, but he came back for a consistent 36, one over par, on his card.

Edward E. McCoy, of Oakmont, chairman of the W. G. P. A. caddies' welfare committee and George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, secretary of the parent body were directing play, with Jimmy O'Donnell, Edgewood pro, acting as starter. The scores:

The Country Club of Pittsburgh was holding its annual guests' day for women with more than 100 of the district's fair stars in play.

Tomorrow the city championship gets under way at the Schenley Park municipal links, with Carl F. Kauffmann going after his sixth title in seven years. The field is a fine one, and Carl will have to show some fine golf if he hopes to bag the gonfalon again. Qualifying and final rounds will be at 36 holes, and the "in-between" rounds at 18 holes.

WOMEN PLAY TOMORROW

Mrs. H. T. Patton and Mrs. W. H. Hochberg will play for the Aleoma Country Club championship in a 36-hole final battle tomorrow, while on the same day a private tourney, in which 60 will be entertained by the Messrs. Cole and Watters, is to be held.

Nelson Zimmerman, professional at Wildwood, predicts one of the largest fields of the season for the invitation mixed foursome tourney to be held at his club on Wednesday. More than 100 pairs had entered up to today, and the lists were not closed.

The Highland Country Club pair, Vincent Eldred and Jim Ramsay, topped the field in the pro-amateur tourney staged at the Steubenville Country Club yesterday. The Pittsburghers turned in a score of 72, one over par.

Rader Jewett and Jule Pollock, of Wheeling, finished second with 73, and Chuck Onoretta and R. H. Kirk, Bill Alcroft and Fred Smith and Jule Blanton and Max Devol tied for third with 74s.

DOUBLES PLAY ON TODAY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—After the minor national doubles tennis events are decided this afternoon, Johnny Doeg and George Lott, defending champions, will enter the Longwood grandstand court to finish their deadlocked quarter-finals match, interrupted by rain last Thursday, with the United States Davis Cup stars, Sidney Wood and Frank X. Shields, of New York.

The winners will be given 24 hours rest before meeting Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Berkley Bell, New York. The other semi-final also has been scheduled for tomorrow, with Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and Johnny Van Ryn, Philadelphia, opposing Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, and Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex.

It is likely that Doeg and Betty Nuthall, of England, will appear in the mixed doubles final against the survivors of the semi-final involving Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland, Cal., and Allison with the British-American team of Mrs. Elsie Goldsack Pittman and Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal.

S. Jarvis Adams and H. H. Bassford, defending champions in the veterans doubles, will oppose last year's runners up, Fred C. Baggs and Dr. William Rosenbaum, of New York, in their final.

SANDLOT GRID CIRCUIT PLANS BIG YEAR

By TOM BIRKS

With a banner crowd of managers on hand, the first meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Football Conference was held yesterday afternoon at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The clubs represented and the managers included: West View, Manager Paul Muzzio; Majestics, Manager Art Rooney; East Pittsburgh Firemen, Manager McGlashan; Chevrolets, playing from Hazelwood, Manager Mathos; Irish Scholastics, Manager Bill Schollies; McKeesport, represented by Jim Sullivan and Feicy.

The McKeesport delegation certainly was enthusiastic regarding the Tube City club. Sullivan is going to surprise the fans with a star lineup.

The Majestics did not disclose where they will play. The champions may go back to Bridgeville Speedway. Art Rooney being enthusiastic regarding that place.

Paul Muzzio is working quietly on the makeup of the big Red and White team. He announced that Whitey Dummer will be the line coach this season.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—When the big league baseball season ends Al Schacht and Dizzy Dean get busy once next year. If I'm a rich those guys are rivets.

What A-Man and Dizzy are look under the auctioneer's flag waiting for the highest bidder. Personally, I'd get as much bid for a case of poison ivy as either of those lads. They both got such a bump on themselves they haven't even got room for bumps.

If Dizzy was as good a pitcher as he thinks he is he'd need Napoleon for a catcher and if Shaw was as good a first baseman as he thinks he is he'd need second and third. Yep, competition for the infielders is going to be keen next year.

CRITCHLOW CHAMPION

RECORD FIELD TO PLAY FOR PRO TITLE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31.—(AP).—One hundred and four of the country's foremost professionals comprising the largest field in the history of the Professional Golf Association, are eligible to battle for the national professional golf championship at the Wannamoisett Country Club here next month. The draw and starting times for the 36-hole qualifying round were announced last night.

Tommy Armour, of Detroit, the defending titleholder and also the British open champion, heads the list. All except Armour had to earn their places in the field through sectional qualifying rounds.

Walter Hagen, five times former Professional Golf Association champion who failed to qualify for the 1930 tournament at Fresh Meadows, is back in the fold after a year's absence. Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., the national open champion, Leo Diegel and Gene Sarazen, two more former P. G. A. titleholders; Johnny Farrell, Willie MacFarlane, and Cyril Walker, all former national open champions, are only a few of the other big shots on the starting list.

The announcement of the draw reveals that all the members of the United States' triumphant Ryder Cup team except Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., will be on hand. Harry Cooper, of Chicago; Charlie Guest, Joe Turnesa and Charles Lacey are others of the scattered few ranking professionals who failed to qualify for the coming championship.

Action and plenty of it will be participated at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight when Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., one of the [illegible] money boys of the heavyweight class, answers the bell against Emmett Rocco, rugged Pittsburgh Negro, who heads in the 10-round main bout.

Tuffy Griffiths

Tuffy and he is well matched, with a knockout punch in each glove. Rocco has been out of the ring for a year, but has been working hard in the camps of Griffiths and Schaaf. He should be out to duplicate this feat, no doubt, but Emmett claims he was out of condition when this happened at Detroit last year and if a knockout is scored he may reverse matters on youth from out West.

Both fighters are in good physical shape for the battle according to word received from the camps. Griffiths worked out at the Pittsburgh Lyceum yesterday afternoon.

PRELIMS STRONG

Promoter Apples Meyers and Matchmaker Julie Beck have congregated a fine supporting cast with Long Tom Williams, Negro heavyweight of Cleveland, opposing Harold Scarney of Youngstown Rocco's stablemate, in the eight-round semi-final.

Carl Montebagno, Frank Klaus tough middleweight, meets the awkward but hard-punching Lloyd Clements of Swissvale in the six-round second bout and Anson Green, Negro of Homestead, faces Tony Lubino, a junior-welterweight of Lisbon, O., a newcomer to these parts, in the opening number. The show will start at 8:45 daylight saving time.

Up in New York tonight Ernie Schaaf of Boston, who terms the reports that he has broken friendship with Jack Sharkey the talkative Gob who owns 50 per cent of him as "baloney," will endeavor to put down Victorio Campolo the Big Boy of the Argentine to his size in their 12-round bout at Ebbets Field.

HAMAS ON CARD

Steve Hamas, the young heavyweight star who played football, basketball and baseball at Penn State two years ago, is on the Schaaf-Campolo card against Mike DeSanto. Hamas was forced to pull out of this fight when the postponement of the show from last week ran into the Tommy Loughran-Jack Gross fight scheduled to go in Philadelphia tonight, but when Loughran asked to have his battle set back until next Tuesday night Hamas found himself with an open date and asked to get back on the program.

Between Rounds

A benefit amateur boxing show is carded for Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight. Two bouts will make up the program sponsored by the Exonerators for Lobber Firemen, of Shaler Township.

Sammy Paris, former Iowa bantamweight, will box Don Barbare at one of the preliminaries on the Paul Pirrone-Jess Grove card at Cleveland tonight.

Matchmaker Bill Donovan announces his complete card at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night. In the main go Billy Jones, formerly of the Hill and now of Philadelphia, meets Nate Brown, of California. Buddy McArthur, of McKees Port, tackles Bruno Sala, of Donora, in the eight-round semi-final. Johnny Warner, of Clairton, boxes Jackie Wilson, Negro bantamweight, at Homestead in the second bout and Paul Balint, of the North Side, engages Al Lefton, of Mc-Kees Rocks, in the curtain raiser.

Young Bonta, of Pittsburgh, is matched to go a return bout with Frankie Terry, of Akron, O., at Akron tonight. Terry beat him at Hickey Park, Millvale, a few weeks ago. Bonta is matched to meet Al Roberts, of Akron, in the semi-final.

Johnny Cooper, clever Negro welterweight, formerly of Chicago and now of the Hill district, is anxious to get started here against any boy his weight the matchmaker will sign. Cooper before coming here defeated Nardi, Smith, Terry, George Simms, Jimmy Murphy, Mickey O'Neil, arguably others. He is managed by Marcellus Anderson, who can be had to pulling trains [illegible]

COLLINS MISSES NO-HIT WIN

Associated Press

The distinction of going seven innings of a scintillating pitching performance went to Phil Collins of the Phillies who allowed only one hit in beating the New York Giants 3 to 0 in the second game of a double-header. Francis Hogan's single in the second inning was the only blow off Collins. The Giants captured the first game, 8 to 2, behind Carl Hubbell's right pitching.

Lefty Ed Brandt chalked up his seventeenth victory as the Boston Braves bumbled the Brooklyn Robins 3 to 2 in the first half of a twin bill. The Robins came from behind to beat Tom Zachary in the nightcap, 4 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds fell upon Pat Malone for four runs in the eighth inning to square their series with the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3.

YANKEES WIN

Twenty-two thousand Boston fans watched the Redsox take a 14-to-4 plastering from the New York Yankees led by Lou Gehrig who belted his 37th home run, a double and two singles, the Yanks collecting 21 hits off four Sox pitchers.

Using a second-string battery the Athletics caught one of their infrequent beatings from the Washington Senators, 5 to 1.

Goose Goslin smashed six hits including a homer and two doubles as the St. Louis Browns turned on the Cleveland Indians and swept a doubleheader, 8 to 3 and 6 to 3.

The Chicago Whitesox committed eight errors and their four pitchers allowed 12 passes on balls but they defeated Detroit 10 to 8 in 12 innings. The loss dropped the Tigers into a tie with the Sox for last place in the American League.

hamton neighbor of Southpaw Bill, opposed his friend on the slab but Glenn was not himself and the Cardinals were not to be held on the leash. The Redbirds nicked Glenn for three runs in the third round and they added a safety tally in the fifth. Loose play by the Pirates gave succor to the Redbirds in this game.

Remy Kremer was beaten by Paul Derringer in the opening game. The Pirates were led through nine runless rounds by the big International Leaguer. Derringer fanned 10 Buccos.

Kremer has now been blanked his last two games, the Pirates making him the grand total of one run in his last three starts.

Coast Fans Riot; Police, Firemen Out

SEATTLE, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Police reserves and firemen yesterday quelled several thousand baseball fans who rioted after a Los Angeles-Seattle Coast League game was forfeited to the home club.

Umpire Pete Casey awarded the game to Seattle on the ground Los Angeles players were holding up play in the second of two games in order that four and a half innings would not be played before an agreed time limit expired.

The fans then rushed from the stands and surrounded the Los Angeles players. Fred Haney, third baseman, was struck on the head.

HUNTINGTON MAKES GAIN

With the three leaders remaining idle yesterday as the final week of the Middle Atlantic League's second half race got under way, the Huntington club nine punched its way a bit closer to the top by defeating Beckley 9 to 5.

Scottdale and Johnstown were kept idle by rain, and Clarksburg won a game by forfeit when Youngstown failed to put in an appearance.

Two shutouts were recorded. Charleston blanked Fairmont 3-0, with Kermode pitching a three-hit classic, and Cumberland crushed Beaver Falls, 10-0. Bill Helmick turning the Failsmen back with five hits.

The Charleston and Fairmont teams laid claim to a league record when they played a game in one hour and 11 minutes. Huntington and Charleston each claimed the former records, having played games last one hour 17 minutes.

BRITISH BOAT DOES 80 PER

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Gar Wood realizes now what sort of a task confronts him in defense of the Harmsworth trophy on the Detroit River Saturday afternoon.

Wood held a watch on Miss England II, the challenger, as Kaye Don put it through a trial run yesterday and clocked the British boat at a speed of better than 80 miles an hour. The record for one lap of the Harmsworth course is 79.082 miles an hour, set last year by Miss America IX.

Wood refused to make any comment, but later in the day took Miss America IX out for its first run since it was equipped with super-chargers. He was well pleased with the performance of the craft.

South Park Caddies Get Clothes, Shoes

Approximately $200 worth of shoes and clothing are to be distributed among 31 caddies who turned in low scores in the first annual tourney for caddies at the South Park (Allegheny County) golf course, Jimmy Conrad, caddiemaster at South Park, announced today.

Realizing that the bagtoters would find wearing apparel much more useful than cups and medals, the South Park officials decided to give useful gifts.

Caddiemaster Conrad, Al McBride, South Park pro, and John Jay Burke, city office manager of county parks, worked untiringly in raising the prize money.

Things Move Sideways At the Moment.

By B. C. FORBES

TWO OF THE MOST influential men of affairs in America tell me:

"Things here have not yet improved one bit."

B. C. Forbes

There is an underlying feeling of hesitancy which I gather is based on apprehension that stability will not return until the wage readjustment movement now under way has run its course.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declares emphatically that nothing on earth will cause him to modify his out-and-out opposition to wage reductions regardless of what may happen to commodity prices, volume of employment or anything else. The stern fact remains, however, that far more downward revision of wages and salaries have been and are being quietly made than generally learned.

THERE IS NO longer unanimity among wage earners themselves as to what would be most helpful in the way of hastening the stimulation of industry and business activity. Here is one letter just received from T. W. McGilton, Aberdeen, Wash.:

"From a common laborer's viewpoint, in order for prosperity to return, I would suggest that ALL business, big and little, employ labor at what each business will stand and gradually increase the wages as fast as prosperity returns, so we may have something to do and be able to live. I have been out of work eight months."

Another reader, who asks that his name be withheld, writes in part:

"You financial 'wizards' that assume to know it all, will you ever learn that you cannot defy and annul the natural law of supply and demand? Attempts have been made to peg or maintain an artificial price for rubber, sugar, wheat, cotton and many other commodities—and with what results?

"Now, you are trying to maintain an artificial price for labor, and in doing so you are obstructing the return of prosperity. I'm a skilled mechanic, able and anxious to work, a college graduate with a degree. I would be glad to work for $3 a day rather than suffer privation for the necessities of life or maybe eventually have to apply to some charity for aid. Why should you try to maintain an artificial wage scale against the wishes of those who are in need and begging for work? I express the sentiment of 99 per cent of the unemployed today."

WITHOUT SEEKING here to inject any views of my own, I cannot do other than report what the actual situation is, so far as I can learn through diligent investigation. Whereas there was almost general intention originally to maintain boom time wages and to keep on keeping on as near normally as possible, an increasing number of employers have become discouraged about their ability to carry on much longer without further reducing their costs, including labor costs.

Read this statement in Saturday's New York Times:

"Installation of freight cars in the first seven months of 1931 numbered 8,264 against 55,660 in the same period last year. The railroads placed numerous orders last year in an effort to keep the wheels of commerce turning, but steady and drastic declines in traffic made continuance of this policy impossible."

EVERY SENSIBLE person naturally favors the paying of the highest wages feasible, the highest wages compatible with the best interests of the country, of prosperity, of wage earners, of employment. Few actions could be more despicable than needless reducing of wage rates.

The question now seriously worrying many employers is how best to distribute the total weekly sum available for wages. Some agree with Mr. Green that it is wisest to maintain the 1929 wage rates and cut down the number employed. Others now doubt whether it might not be better to chance the 1929 rates, so as to give work to more men, and through reducing prices encourage resumption of buying.

That's how the situation stands at the moment.

FOREIGN EVENTS were interpreted in the highest financial circles as reassuring last week. Inducing France to extend $200,000,000 credit to Britain, the same amount as taken by American bankers, is hailed as extremely gratifying. It signifies that France has finally been impelled to take a broader view of her responsibility towards the rest of Europe. Germany's troubles, too, have been temporarily overcome.

NO CONVINCING recovery can yet be reported at home. Commodity prices, however, have been moving sideways rather than decisively downwards. The same can be said of the stock market. Grain and cotton held their own last week. But the fall in railway and other bonds has disturbed bankers as well as investors. Then, too, dividend reductions continue.

WHETHER THE RECENT relative steadiness in stocks and commodities foreshadows an early revival or will prove less significant cannot be foretold. It is at least some consolation that the general decline has been to some extent arrested.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. The bond market started the new week today with a more hopeful tone, although the price trend was generally higher. Rising prices in railroad issues and moderate gains in United States government obligations caused the change in sentiment.

STOCK MARKET PERVADED BY HEAVY TONE

New Treasury Financing, Drawing Attention to Deficit Affects List

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 —(AP.)—The announcement of $1,100,000,000 in financing for the United States Treasury focused Wall street's attention upon our mounting treasury deficit today, and helped to impart a heavy tone to the stock market.

The extremely favorable terms of the new Treasury financing, however, had a bolstering effect upon the bond market, where United States government issues and rail liens improved. Some selling came into the foreign issues, however, Brazilians breaking sharply on announcement of suspension of sinking fund payments.

Unsettling to the share market was a drop of 3 points in American Can, and a slump of 2 in Alaska Juneau. The latter, a low-priced gold mining stock has been a pool favorite in recent months. The dumping of a few large blocks on the market today was attributed in some quarters to profit taking by Chicago interests.

The market tried to rally at times during the morning but sagged off after midday. It was very dull.

It was pointed out in speculative quarters that the large Treasury financing was susceptible to either bullish or bearish interpretation. The offering of $800,000,000 in long-term bonds at 3 per cent might indicate a belief in Treasury circles that a substantial pickup in commercial activity is likely to appear before the next quarterly tax date, so that such favorable terms might not then be available. This possibility had little effect upon sentiment however, since it had been brought up three months ago, when a similar offering of bonds was made at 3½ per cent.

Although it is understood that the administration is averse to any increase in taxation during depressed times, the deficit of some $900,000,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30, and the prospect of an even greater deficit this year, is regarded in Wall street as foreshadowing an eventful period of reckoning.

The better tone in bonds particularly the railroad obligations has inspired considerable gossip over the possibility that organized support may have been arranged. With railroad earnings for July comparing less favorably with last year than those of June, and freight car loadings reports unfavorable, little basis for the movement can be found. Early estimates of the weekly freight car loadings figures to be announced Wednesday however indicate some improvement.

WHEAT SLIDES AT OPENING

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Wheat was weak at the opening today, and prices generally sagged fractionally in sympathy with weakness at Liverpool. Trade was of small volume, consisting mainly of scattered sales from Chicago speculators. Corn was sold in moderate quantities. Wheat started unevenly ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, and showed little disposition to rally. Corn opened steady to ⅛c down and held around these figures.

News from Germany was discouraging to wheat exporters. Estimates of the German crop this year were placed at 168,845,000 bushels as compared with 159,300,000 last year. Despite recently heavy rains and floods, the crop was said to be making average progress. Estimates on German imports placed the probable total this present season at 4,410,000 bushels, against 31,164,000 last year and 70,528,000 in 1928-29. Reports from United States Department of Agriculture said the Russian wheat harvest was 65 per cent completed. The crop was said to have suffered severely from excessive rains and poor handling with present export offerings made possible by good crops in the Ukraine.

Shippers Protest Rail Freight Rate Raise

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (AP)—
Final presentation of evidence on the railroads petition for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates began today with the Interstate Commerce Commission in two concurrent hearings listening to the protests of Midwestern shippers.

The two divisions, which had been conducting hearings all over the United States, converged on Chicago to hear the last evidence. Oral arguments are then to be presented in Washington.

The Ohio Line Producers represented by W. W. Sprague were the first to present their protest to the proposed rates before the section headed by Commissioner B. H. Meyer.

Collin Realizes That He's in Love With Fanchon

CHAPTER XVI

"The first thing you know," said Collin to Fanchon one day on the links, "first thing you know you'll be getting married and then where will we be?"

"Just where you were before," she laughed, "and well rid of me . . . according to your own early confession."

"I'd rather hoped you'd forgotten that," he grumbled and promptly muffed his easy approach to the green.

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is en route to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs' affection wins her heart. At Southampton, awaiting the arrival of her son, Collin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously. He arrives and accuses Fanchon of being there under false pretenses. Collin objects to "Evelyn." Fanchon learns that Evelyn had indiscreet affairs with a naval officer and a priest. Fanchon's sincerity in explaining that "her" indiscretion was only folly overcomes Collin's antagonism.

Now Go On

"Neither will I," then he added, cheerfully, "I shouldn't be up to being a fourth this morning. If I'm not happy otherwise. We've got to settle down into a style we're both comfortable in together," he laughed.

But his eyes were shadowed, too. He had been aware for some time that he was becoming far too fond of his cousin. And he looked with horror at do most people upon marriage of persons of the same blood or relatives.

That his mother was a little troubled he knew also. He had seen it in her eyes, heard it in a phrase or two which she had uttered in his hearing. But he trusted him and Evelyn loved them both. He thought suddenly, feeling old and worn, how strange that we should have disliked one another so much on first sight. Was that not in itself a warning of love to come? Hate that is very near love.

MAY TAKE TRIP

"After," he remarked aloud, "after you make your debut and I see you safely through and shoo all the unclaimed men off the doorstep, I'm thinking of going round the world again. You'll be with mother, so I won't have the usual complication about leaving her."

He looked at Fanchon. He couldn't help it. She paled under the tan, under the healthy, lovely glow. He saw her eyes fall, her lips tighten. She turned to her waiting caddy and selected a club from her bag with the utmost unconcern.

"We'll miss you," she said lightly. "Aunt Jennie spoke of taking me aboard in the spring for a long visit. France and England and perhaps elsewhere. Maybe we could meet you somewhere and come on home together."

"Thanks," he said gloomily.

"Why, Collin, for what?" she asked, in some amazement.

"For missing me—"

He couldn't help it. If his life depended on silence he would have been forced to sacrifice his life. Fond of her! He knew now, as she walked beside him troubled, not answering his challenge that he loved her. He loved her terribly.

"Of course we'll miss you," she said, still trying to keep her words light and casual, more than we can say."

There was no further speech between them, of a personal nature, that day. They both played very bad golf.

RECALLS PAST

Going home Fanchon went directly to her room and sat down on her bed while Emma got out her clothes for the dance she was going to with Collin that night. She lay very still and straight, having taken off her clothes and put on a thin silken kimona. It was very warm, the heat of early September. They would soon return to town. Collin would soon be leaving them. This was the first she had heard of it.

From enmity and armed truce she and Collin Carstairs had grown into a very fine friendship. She was grateful to him for taking her at her word and for never by word or sign referring again to the original clash of their meeting and its cause. She and he had a mutual bond in their great love for Jennie Carstairs. They also liked the same things, laughed at the same jokes were responsive to the same shades of beauty.

They were perfectly mated. And she knew, lying there trying to picture a world without him, even with Jennie, that she had fallen in love with him. Not suddenly, wildly, girlishly as she had with Tony. Not unthinkingly, not even romantically. Not perhaps fallen into love at all. She had rather grown into it through friendship . . . and the "big lazy, sunny summer things." And it was a matter for which tainted her as "a gent upon her bed as she was listening to Emma's soft footsteps, listening to the sea outside of her open windows to the laughter of someone on the piazza.

It was unthinkable.

In the first place she was an imposter. She was not Evelyn Howard. And had she been Evelyn Howard the barrier of blood would have stood between her and the consummation of her love.

BAD SITUATION

Only by telling him who she was could she confess to him that she was not Evelyn could that barrier be removed. And that step she was not prepared to take and could not face taking.

The enormity of her offense came to her more and more clearly. If she thought Collin would only go away as he had said he would do and go away quickly, she could perhaps win back to peace again with Jennie with Jennie's kindness and love to protect her. But now every step she took seemed charged with peril, at any moment the ground might open and swallow her up.

She knew that Collin loved her. She was a perfectly modern girl, men had loved her before, she knew the symptoms. She faced them. She would not hide behind a pretense of not knowing that he cared.

MOTHER SMILES

She made it for the rest of their stay at Southampton as difficult as possible for him to be alone with her. There always were others. She was very popular in the colony with the girls her own age as well as with the men. Mrs. Carstairs watched the residences of this popularity with growing pleasure and pride.

Evelyn could have any man in Southampton, Jennie said one day to her son.

I suppose so. And no one's good enough for her," he growled unthinkingly.

His mother smiled puzzlingly. He looked up and caught the expression.

Oh, I know what you're thinking," he confessed, smiling wryly in his turn . . . but after knowing her, no one could believe all that yet. A lot of over-age old spinsters! I suppose putting the wrong interpretation on everything."

That's what I thought from the beginning," his mother said placidly, but now his tone caught, belatedly, at her heart and she said, quickly, the placidity gone, "Oh, Collin dear!"

I know. I what can I say or do? I'm sorry, mother."

DAILY SHORT STORY

Some Other Guy

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Detective Helps Thief Escape From Punishment

"Slim" Smith sat in a corner of the Pavilion Restaurant, fanning himself with his hat and apparently entirely engrossed in his sandwiches and beer.

To tell the truth, Slim couldn't have told whether he was eating ham or cheese, he was so intent on sizing up possible victims.

Slim Smith was a "dip." His deft fingers already itched to get at the bulges in many a coat pocket where he knew the wearer had stowed his leather.

The night was ideal for Slim—one of those gaspingly hot evenings that evoke so many insane comments on the humidity. The big dance floor wasn't half filled and when it is too hot for dancing it is some hot.

Out on the beach were thousands, literally. Some were taking a dip, but the majority were just sitting about trying to get a breath of air that was somewhat under a temperature of 90.

Only two tables away sat a couple. The girl was young and pretty. Slim did not pay much attention to her. He didn't go in for handbag snatching or anything so crude as that. He did notice that the girl seemed to be unusually young and that her boy friend was keeping her glass filled with something from his big pocket flask.

"Boy friend" was scarcely the proper term. This chap was around 40. Slim guessed. He didn't give much thought to what was going on. It was doubtless the same old story, or would be. The girl would think she was having a gay time and later would regret everything bitterly. Another score against the noble experiment of prohibition.

FOLLOW COUPLE

The man interested Slim. He was well dressed. There was a diamond on his hand that looked the McCoy to Slim. The man finally paid the check with a big bill. Slim's keen eyes saw that the man's leather bill-fold was fat with yellowbacks. He also saw that the man slipped the bill-fold in the inside pocket of his coat.

Give Slim half a chance in a crowd and he would extract that billfold with ease and disappear.

The man and the girl started out. The girl was already unsteady on her feet and giggling.

Slim followed her. They would go down on the sand and mingle with the crowd, Slim thought. He would flop down near them and get that wallet full of money.

They walked to the end of the boardwalk and on over the rough path. Slim thought they would never stop walking. Finally he saw what the man was planning to get out of the crowd. This made Slim sore. He needed crowds to help him when his trained fingers lifted other people's property. He might be back in the crowd working on some other victims. He wouldn't have a chance here. He took a sudden bitter dislike to the man. If the silly little fool of a girl got drunk enough he might attempt something that he rarely did, tap the man with a leather-covered sling shot and appropriate his valuables before the hubbies stopped singing. If he risked this he could also get that ring.

MAKES DECISION

Slim decided to try it. He had walked away down here and he was good and sore. The man deserved it, anyway, for fooling him like this.

In his well-trained manner he sauntered here and there and constantly followed them. So cleverly did he do this that the man would never have suspected him had he noticed Slim. But the man was too much occupied with his other plans to notice Slim.

The crowd thinned, the beach narrowed into ledges. On the man went with the girl. In the marsh grass close to an old road was a parked car. The couple went over to it. It evidently belonged to the man.

Slim edged around the car and saw the girl trying to fight the man away from her.

"You might to know better. No, I tell you. Oh, please."

He stepped around the car and the sling-shot came down on the man's bare head. It was nicely done. The blow wasn't powerful enough to kill, or to crack the man's skull, but it tapped him into unconsciousness in a flash.

"Oh, help me, please, mister!" the girl cried when she saw Slim.

"Sure, don't get scared, sister, and don't make no noise. Your boy friend has k.o.'d. or fainted."

"Boy friend? Why I thought—he's—"

She began to sob a little.

"Snap out of it, sister. Nobody's going to hurt you."

Slim pretended to work over the man. He straightened up finally. The man's money and his diamond ring were in Slim's pocket.

"Leave him sleep it off, he's soused," he said.

The girl didn't answer, but she backed away from Slim.

"Where do you live, sister? I'll put you on th' train."

"Will you? Oh, I must get home right away. I—I feel terrible, dizzy and sick and frightened. I—I guess you understand."

"Sure, I understand kid. Next time pick some guy from your own crowd. Here, take it for carfare."

Slim slipped her a dollar bill.

"I—I've got to take it, but if you will give me your name and address—"

"Forget it, sister," he said and laughed at the idea of doing anything so sappy as that.

They had just reached the boardwalk when a bulky man turned sharply, stared at the girl and said, "Nora!"

The girl gasped in fright.

"What's the idea?" he asked, grabbing her by the wrist.

"Lay off the kid," Slim demanded.

"Hush, it's my father," the girl said.

The girl's father stared at Slim and Slim stared back, but his knees began to knock together, for he was staring into the grim visage of Detective Sergt. Anders.

"So, you're taking up with crooks, are you?" Anders said to his girl and without waiting for a reply he wheeled on Slim.

"You'll go up for this, Slim," he said.

"Wait, this man is a gentleman, honest he is, dad. I went out with your friend Grolton and he, he well, this man came just in time and saved me. He he hit him and left him back there."

"Is this straight, Nora?"

"It's straight, chief," Slim answered for her.

EXPLAINS TO DETECTIVE

"How come?"

"Well, I followed this guy down to lift his leather, if you gotta have it straight, and when I seen what he was up to I sort of socked him and was bringin' th' kid to a train."

"Here's the dollar he gave me for carfare," said Nora.

Detective Sergeant Anders handed the dollar back to Slim.

"See you later, Slim," he said.

Slim walked away and it was an hour before he felt quite himself again. At that he wasn't at all happy. This man he had tapped, Grolton, the girl had called him, was a friend of Anders, so the girl had reminded her father. If he put up a yelp about the money and ring, Anders would know who did it. It didn't occur to Slim that the man wouldn't dare make a complaint.

Later this phase of it came to Slim's mind and he felt better.

"A guy has to eat," he told himself and so he went back to his light-fingered profession.

And then along came one of those sporadic complaints about "crime waves" and another "entire clean-up" was ordered. It made good newspaper reading.

In due course Detective Lyons spoke to Slim Smith.

"They want to see you," was all that he said.

"I'm busy looking for a job," Slim answered, "but if that's straight I'll go over. They ain't got a thing on me."

Detective Lyons yawned. It was the same old bluff. He knew that Slim was no fool and that he would report at headquarters. It made things easier for him than it would if they had to send out a second time and drag him in.

There was the usual grill. Slim did his usual stuff, protesting that he hadn't done a crooked thing since he got out of stir three years before.

"I been workin' here and there and was gonna get a job today if you boys hadn't sent for me," he said.

After the grilling Slim took up his hat.

"In the morning, Slim," was told.

"An jees th' line-up? Have a heart. I ain't done nothin'."

He knew it would be no use. They could hold him 24 hours and a great deal longer if they wished. So he passed the night behind bars and dreaded the morning line-up.

The lineup was a big one next morning. The platform was kept constantly occupied with new lines of crooks. They stood up there facing glaring lights so arranged that they could not see the plainclothes men and others who were sitting down front sizing them up.

In a corner, in a sort of pulpit, one of the officers would read off the man's name, his aliases, his police and prison record and other information, meanwhile the dicks would be getting an eyeful of each crook for future use.

Detective Sergeant Anders was in the box reading the records. The slips had been handed to him. He went over them lot by lot. One batch of crooks contained Slim Smith. Detective Sergeant Anders read his record as a pickpocket and then he took a look at Slim. After that he turned to the audience.

Now and then a mistake is made. Here's a natural mistake. This man is Albert Watkins. He is almost a dead ringer for Slim Smith. Watkins has been picked up before for Smith. I happen to know which is which," Detective Sergeant Anders said, "so this time we have the wrong guy." He turned to Detective Lyons. "See that he gets out, Lyons," he said.

LEAVES FOR WEST

That afternoon Detective Sergeant Anders dropped into a place and found Slim.

He slipped him an envelope that contained plenty of money for traveling expenses. He glared at Slim.

"Lath, you damn crook," he said, "I am and stay away from this man's town for at least six months until this blows over."

"I'm Watkins, Chief—you got the wrong guy," Slim said, but he slipped over a wink and an hour later was on a rattler headed west.

Heavy Registration

Eagerness to Vote of the People in Allegheny County's Third Class Cities Is a Good Sign.

Why are incapable and untrustworthy officials sometimes elected to office in Allegheny County, even after it is known they are incapable and untrustworthy?

The Republican machine's control of thousands of slavish voters who vote as the bosses dictate regardless of the character of the candidates, furnishes a partial explanation. Cheating at the polls also plays a part in it.

But the apathy of the stay at home citizens is chiefly to blame.

The machine's vote generally is brought out in full force. When there is an abnormal increase in the vote—an honest increase, that is—it is usually due to the arousing of the interest of the independent citizens—voters who are not controlled by the machine, who inquire into the fitness of the candidates, and use their own judgment in marking their ballots.

There are indications that the vote this year will be exceptionally large. Registrations in McKeesport, Clairton and elsewhere last Friday, the first registration day for third class cities, were surprisingly heavy. The registration is ordinarily light the first day.

If this heavy registration was due, as seems not unlikely, to the interest of uncontrolled voters in the forthcoming primaries, it augurs well.

Why, Mr. President?

Congress Should Be Called Into Special Session to Deal Broadly With Depression.

President Hoover has appointed a Commission headed by Secretary Walter S. Gifford to deal with the problem of relief for the unemployed.

That gesture is good as far as it goes.

But why doesn't the President go further and DO SOMETHING TO IMPROVE THE JOB SITUATION.

His present program deals only with the effects of depression, and IGNORES THE CAUSES.

The occasion calls for SPEEDY AND COURAGEOUS ACTION, not for mere tedious academic fact findings.

The President should forthwith call Congress in special session to deal broadly with the economic depression.

Congress should be urged to authorize a prosperity loan of $5,000,000,000 for social reconstruction and the return of normal business.

This huge sum should be expended promptly on essential Federal public works, which ordinarily would be developed gradually over a period of years.

This program would redeem millions of unemployed from idleness, and would release new purchasing power which would stimulate trade on all sides.

The proposal is in accordance with modern economic thinking, which has come to regard capital expenditures as business stabilizers which should be expanded in times of depression and retarded in periods of boom.

Creative economists also urge the development of machinery for co-operative planning and co-ordination of the activities of private business enterprises.

These ideas are aimed at getting the economic organism to function efficiently again.

When it does, the problem of unemployment will be to a large extent met.

The opportunity for statesmanship is to deal with the larger questions of economic stability, not with mere charity for the casualties of the depression.

The multitudes of unemployed in this country want jobs, not HANDOUTS.

With a third winter of distress threatening, why doesn't Hoover seek to do something genuinely effective?

A Commendable Plan

The Churches Have Undertaken a Praiseworthy Movement in the Campaign to Can Food for the Poor.

Fruits and vegetable crops are exceptionally good in Pennsylvania this year. The yield of apples and peaches is so large that a considerable part of it may go to waste. Garden truck of all sorts is cheap and abundant.

Here lies an opportunity to relieve the distress of the needy, and it is gratifying to note that a number of Pittsburgh's churches have perceived the opportunity and are going to take advantage of it.

The plan is for the women of the congregations to can fruit and vegetables for distribution to indigent families next winter.

No doubt there are numerous kindly disposed people in the rural and suburban districts who will be glad to donate surplus fruit and vegetables to any churches that are willing to preserve and distribute them.

No Giddiness in Flying

The State Forest Department Encourages Those Contemplating Their First Airplane Ride.

The Commonwealth invites the people of Pennsylvania to climb the 120 forest fire observation towers and enjoy the panorama. But not a few persons who essayed the climb this summer were overcome by vertigo before reaching the top and had to be helped down by the observers. As a Pennsylvania Dutch lady in Lebanon County described it, she had "such an all-overish feeling of giddiness."

This has led to an investigation by the Department of Forests and Waters and to the issuance of an explanation that should be encouraging to persons who would like to take an airplane ride but who, knowing how giddy they become at the comparatively low altitude of a forest tower, fear they would suffer acute distress while flying.

The mental disturbance experienced on the observation towers is found to be due to the fact that the eyes attempt to focus simultaneously on two objects, the distant landscape and some part of the tower structure. Looking from an airplane the eyes focus only on the earth far below, and consequently there is no giddiness.

Mrs. J. B. Henderson, A Grand Dowager

By Claude G. Bowers

Apropos of social lobbies at Washington, the press in its stories of Mrs. John B. Henderson on the occasion of her death recently apparently knew little of her early life at the capital. She had been known too long as the dowager of Boundary Castle, and there were too many interesting things about her life there.

Not long ago, in the preparation of a book of history, I had occasion to turn the pages of the newspapers of the latter half of the 1860s and Mrs. Henderson's name appeared frequently, both in connection with society and politics. Her father was the Commissioner of Patents under Lincoln and Johnson, and she was one of the belles of the younger set.

She captivated John B. Henderson, one of the strongest men in the Senate, and it was during the period of their engagement that she figured dramatically in the political news. It was known that her father sympathized with Andrew Johnson in his fight against the radicals of the Senate, and when the impeachment proceedings came, and everyone with pad and pencil was figuring just how each Senator would vote, Henderson was put down as a probable supporter of Johnson. The reason given was the influence of Miss Foote, who was afterwards Mrs. Henderson.

Henderson Stood Like a Stone Wall

There can be no doubt of where her sympathies were, but it is probably unfair to ascribe her husband's support of Johnson in the trial to her influence. For Henderson was a really strong man, an able lawyer with a keen sense of justice, and a contempt for hypocrisy. He was revolted along with some other Republican Senators, like Fessenden and Trumbull, by the methods employed in the attempt to lynch the President.

He heard the evidence and no doubt reached a definite conclusion on that. But when the evidence was in and the lynchers began their campaign of bulldozing and intimidation even to encouraging Grant in the questionable work of canvassing a juror for a verdict of guilt, Henderson was one of the men upon whom they concentrated.

The Missouri delegation and he represented Missouri—called upon him in a body with a threat. Telegrams, the most outrageous, poured in upon him from his state. Mass meetings, the most repulsive, were staged in St. Louis to intimidate him. But he stood like a stone wall.

It is an interesting sidelight that his answer to the St. Louis meeting was written by Samuel (Sunset) Cox, a representative from New York, and one of the greatest wits and most entertaining speakers of his time. He had just dropped in on Henderson when the telegram arrived. "Let me write the answer," he said. Henderson consented. And the reply was in the phrasing of Cox.

Paid the Penalty for Insurgency Against Party

It is not easy for the present or the last generation to think of Mrs. Henderson with any other social background than the magnificent "castle" she occupied for years. But the newspapers of those days show that the Hendersons, when first married, lived at the Willard Hotel, then the best and most fashionable, and that she entertained very frequently there. It was the old Willard where Lincoln had stopped when he first went to Washington as President-elect.

But Henderson paid the penalty of insurgency against his party's policy and he lost his seat in the Senate, and there was a period when Mrs. Henderson lived in St. Louis.

It was during this time that the Whisky Ring scandals of the Grant administration broke, and Henderson was appointed special prosecutor by the government. A great lawyer, a splendid prosecutor, with a sublime courage, he hewed to the line even though some of the chips flew right into the White House door and hit Babcock, the President's secretary, square in the eye.

A Social Lobbyist of Consummate Skill

It was Henderson's work that resulted in Babcock's indictment, and he was forgiven for that. But when, in other cases in the same scandal, he demonstrated a determination actually to prosecute, and when in a speech he all but warned the White House not to attempt to influence the proceedings against Babcock, he was summarily dismissed in the midst of the prosecutions and when no one else was so familiar with the intricacies of the case. It was a wound, self-inflicted on Grant. For a time Henderson was in eclipse, but he recovered again.

It was years later that Mrs. Henderson returned to the scene of her early triumphs in Washington and took up her residence at Boundary Castle. She owned much of the land in the neighborhood, but there were no houses beyond hers, and there were few improvements made by the district government to make the land attractive. A charming hostess, well known to the leaders of both parties in Congress, which is the governing body of the district, she is credited with having brought about the improvements in that beautiful section of the city. She was a social lobbyist of the most consummate skill.

That done, she built some magnificent houses of stone and marble close by on Sixteenth street, constructing them with the view to elaborate entertainment and ideally fitted as embassies for the foreign representatives. Thus the French, the Belgium and the Spanish ambassadors took up their residence in the section, and consequently placed upon it the stamp of fashion. And that enormously increased the value of the land.

A Gift That Was Declined by Congress

She was a great woman, of the type that would have presided over a salon in the London and Paris of other days. She had self-confidence and the audacity of it, illustrated by her temerity in using the brush herself to touch up her portrait by John Singer Sargent, the master. He had failed to make her eyes as blue and sparkling as they were, she saw that it was done.

Her most recent appearance in the headlines grew out of her plan to provide the Vice-President with a mansion of marble, in keeping with the social dignity of his position; and this she offered to Congress as a gift. It was declined, partly because the Government sometimes—not always—thinks it unwise to accept gifts from citizens, but mostly because of the cost of maintenance. It would have meant a sizable appropriation for this purpose, since many of our Vice-Presidents have been too poor even to rent a house. Tom Marshall never could afford one, and lived in hotel suites, as did also Coolidge.

But Mrs. Henderson made the mansion for the Vice-President quite an issue; she made, in large part, one of the most beautiful sections of the capital; and for many, many years was a social and political figure of consequence, and a business woman of rare acumen.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

It might be interesting to you to try to analyze yourself as to why you consider yourself better than other people.

Put some evidence to indicate you have a superior mind.

Ever attained more than local fame?

Are you more thoroughly educated than your associates?

Are you holding a position that would be recognized as unusual in a larger place or community?

In the conduct of your every day life can you claim to be far above the average in accomplishment?

What good deeds have you done that others have not done as well?

Just why then do you think of yourself as superior?

Why should you snub or be unkind to those whom you believe to be not so competent and honored as yourself?

Is it because you have more money than they?

If money is your only claim to lofty position you thereby demonstrate how small you are—pulled up over the easiest thing to gain and of only relative value you have pretty small caliber.

Considered from all sides are you not an ordinary sort of person?

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Diary of a modern Pepys. Up to ride in my new benzine buggy to Van Cortland Park, which a sea captain told me he found the coolest spot in New York and it was true. And back down Broadway, seeing John Weissmuller, the swimmer, and his bride.

In the afternoon Henry Sell came and gave the most engaging account I ever heard of Russia and his wanderings there with Gene and Polly Tunney. In especial how loud speakers on street corners hurried the masses to work and the intense, and to me fanatic fervor over the five-year plan.

To dinner at the Atlantic Beach Club and among others there were the Jerome Napoleon Bonapartes, Ralph Bloomer, one time football star, Walter Chrysler, Jr., Grover Whalen and a tanned black lady in flimsy black lace pajamas. So home in the starlight singing songs of yesteryear.

Someone calls it "The Museum of Natural Mystery." Thousands of New Yorkers pass by every day but few know the origin. It is a modernistic red tower on Riverside Drive at 103rd street and the official name is The Roerich—a sort of "one man museum" built by a Russian named Nicholas K. Roerich about whom little is known.

I am told 1,006 paintings in the museum are by Mr. Roerich chiefly canvases of an allegorical nature. He has also published paper books, some of which are given away. A section is given over to esoteric literature of the Far East, each volume cached in especial holy cloth. Some days there are only about a dozen visitors and other times it is well filled. There is a graceful cordiality that makes everyone feel instantly welcome and yet there is something about it that seems eerie, like a Rhine castle of legendary myths.

A gentleman in my apartment building is an enthusiastic reader of Gertrude Stein. He believes she is a gifted misunderstood artist. Last evening he turned down a page for me to read and digest slowly. It began: "In in beginning, if in beginning. I begin to be connectedly and carefully and collectedly if I agree, if in the beginning I agree, then I agree, you agree we agree."

I will agree only to one thing—one of us is nuts.

There is more sense and certainly more humor in a headline Earl Mauck sends from a Kentucky weekly: "Victim of Cruel Murder May Live."

Also a young lady in Atlanta in a pet at her brother, for objecting to her smoking cigarets, writes: "I am paying no attention to him. He is one of those ultra particular souls who plays football and permits perfect strangers to walk around on his face."

A chain of popular-priced restaurants recently abolished paper napkins and in a short time business picked up two per cent. There are a number of people to whom the sight of paper napkins creates a slight nausea.

Personal nomination for the most semi-hitherish eyes in the movies: those of Joan Crawford.

In returning to the jagged cusps and campaniles of New York after the smooth architectural splendors of Europe, there is invariably a feeling the city is crazily overbuilt and vulgarly sensational. The skyline is like jazz compared to symphonic rhythm. There is not any very good reason to bust out crying about New York's building artistry but—on second thought I think I'll cry anyway. It is all very terrible.

To my notion the most beautiful of the structures to shoot up recently is the Radio Building on Madison avenue. The Empire and Chrysler kindle the imagination momentarily, but otherwise leave me cold.

A note from Frank Sullivan at his home town, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., tells of galloping there to get away from New York heat and running into thunderstorms of which he is deathly afraid. One bolt plays about his bedroom every night. "I'll get it yet," he adds, "if I have to dig up old Ben Franklin."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

How often have you said this? "Why should that person be unhappy? He's never had any real trouble."

But the greatest trouble on earth is never to have had any real trouble.

You don't believe that? You don't believe that trouble is necessary or helpful? You feel that normal lives should be happy lives and that trouble is unnatural, a dreadful penalty or mistake!

You're wrong. Trouble is as normal and necessary as happiness. It may be hard to take but it is a sort of vitamin for the character, and the man who doesn't have it, gets spiritual rickets.

You can prove that for yourself. If trouble is a curse, then untroubled people should be the healthiest, happiest and most helpful creatures on earth. But are they? Look them over. They are Anything But!

The less trouble the average human has, the more stupid and self-centered he is going to be. Just try and interest him in your personal misfortune! Does he warm with understanding sympathy and offer you a helping hand? No indeed! He listens with cold indifference or assumes a patronizing expression and tells you how you should have avoided your predicament. Worse yet, he may assure you that he "knows just how you feel, dearie," and proceed to pester your harassed spirit with an endless recital of some pee-wee irritation.

And if you really want to start something, try to tell one of these Untroubled Lives that he's lucky. Instantly he will bust into big bleats of self-pity to prove that he is actually the most miserable soul on earth and that Fate has short-changed him.

And it has!

Remember the old verse—"Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth?"

Whom life loveth it challengeth!

—that's the modern version of that verse.

Trouble is life's challenge to a human soul. It is a challenge to all a man has in him of strength and courage, intelligence and self-control. Trouble is also an invitation . . . an invitation to explore the tall adventures of danger and hardship, the immortal mysteries of pain and grief. We will never come to the end of those adventures, we will never be able to understand those mysteries, within the little span of our human experience. But, unless we have tried to explore, unless we have tried to understand, we can never know what life is all about.

The man who has not known trouble, has not known life.

That man is poor. He may have gold in his pocket but he will have nothing but pink wadding in his brain and heart.

He is also humiliated. He is still in the position of a child, for trouble is a grown-up experience and the man who had not known trouble has no place with grown-ups. He has been left behind while other men have gone forward into the jungle darkness of a great journey.

Do not envy those who have never known trouble. Pity them!

EMIL FISCHER

By Archibald Henderson

All of us are familiar with various substances, which we eat or which assist in the processes of digestion. They may occur in food or drink; they may be the very bases of food and drink. We know their names only; we do not know what their constitution may be nor how to make them synthetically. It was in work of this sort, thorough and comprehensive, which made Fischer famous. From the standpoint of sheer utility, his work is almost unsurpassed in the entire history of chemistry.

Emil Fischer was born in Euskirchen, in Rhenish Prussia, on October 9, 1852. He was educated at Bonn, studied chemistry at Strassburg, and afterwards worked for eight years at Munich under the great Baeyer. Fischer was constantly studying varying combinations of oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen and carbon. At the age of 23 he discovered a new combination of hydrogen and nitrogen, to which was given the name "hydrazine," a substance which proved to be of great practical importance.

Following in the footsteps of his master, Baeyer, Fischer devoted his chief attention to the processes of living bodies, although early in his career he discovered the base, in each case, of magenta and indigo. In the waste products of the human body there is a substance called urea, with uric acid as one aspect of this. Fischer studied urea, and curiously enough, showed how it was built up and related to the stimulating principle in tea, coffee and cocoa. He showed the intimate connection between uric acid and the caffeine of tea and coffee.

Next he made an exhaustive study of the sugars. Although there are many different varieties of sugar, they all consist of three elements—carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. Sugar is of enormous value to the human organism. Cane sugar and beet sugar are chemically identical: 12 parts of carbon, 22 of hydrogen, and 11 of oxygen. Maple sugar and honey are almost identical, but along with the three principal ingredients are substances which give the individual flavor. At first the sugar content to be got from beets was only 7 per cent; now it has been raised to 16 to 18 per cent.

Fischer actually manufactured very many substances constantly used for food and drink, such as caffeine, the sugars, and even proteins. In 1910 he showed the Kaiser a piece of actual synthetic protein, which had been manufactured at excessive cost. Fischer also studied the tannins, and made synthetically a substance having all the properties of tannins. For his remarkable work he was awarded the Nobel prize for chemistry. Fischer died in 1911, regarded as one of the greatest of German chemists.

Isn't It So?

All is not gold that's peroxided.

Praise makes good men better and bad men worse.

One thing the most selfish persons cannot keep to themselves is their selfishness.

The reason no man ever gets as much salary as his wife thinks he ought to have is because there isn't that much money.
